HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Aug. 6.—The first game of the series between the Chicago White Stockings and the Red Legs of Boston was started this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

There was a good crowd in attendance as the rain checks which were given out after yesterday's game had been postponed were all on hand with their owners anxious to see the fray start.

Billy Sullivan's crew arrived in this city this morning from the Athletics camp, where they have been for the last few days. Doc White, the hitting pitcher, who has been in the White Sox outfield a greater part of the season, is on the crippled list, as he hurt his knee while sliding to third in the last game with the Athletics.

There are other players on the team who are not feeling just as chipper as can be, Purtell seems to be ailing, but nothing serious is looked for.

The Red Sox were full of pepper, for they had a day of rest after their hard series with the Tigers. The players were glad of the lay-off yesterday, for they had had two double-headers in a row, and this sort of work is most straining.

It is up to Manager Lake to keep his boys on the winning side of the percentage column, for now that the Tigers and Athletics have hooked up over in Philadelphia there is a good chance for him to climb up a great ways. Of course, there is the same chance that the two will split even, and if Lake's crowd drops a couple it won't be such a swell chance.

PAYS $2 FINE FOR A TEN-CENT THEFT

Julia Standard, forty years of age, who says she lives in Malden, paid a $2 fine in the Municipal Court before Judge Wentworth to-day for stealing shoe laces valued at ten cents from a department store.

BOY ELOPER HELD FOR ABDUCTION

The romance of Fred Orlando, eighteen years of age, and Mary Callaghan, thirteen, who ran away from their homes in Arlington Heights to Providence with the intention of getting married, if they could find any one there to wed a couple of children, was brought to a termination to-day in the Cambridge Police Court when the boy was held in $400 for the Grand Jury on the charge of abduction. Another charge of a more serious nature was made against him. The girl is at her home, No. 1,408 Massachusetts avenue, in the care of her mother. The youthful couple eloped Providence and were about to start to New York when the police of the former city caught them.

$500,000 IN REAL GOLD BRICKS SENT

Former Red Sox player is against them to-day and he has been doing great work recently. Parent was always popular with Boston fans.

MRS. THAW WEEPS ON WITNESS STAND

Aged Mother of Stanford White's Slayer Overcome by Emotion as She Tells of Insanity in Family.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw was recalled to the stand at the hearing into Harry K. Thaw's sanity to-day after Roger O'Mara, the Pittsburg detective, had testified as to facts he had learned regarding the character of Stanford White.

Mrs. Thaw made a pathetic figure as she attempted to show that the alienists at her son's trials had urged her to exaggerated statements as to the mental condition of members of her family.

From time to time she burst into tears, controlling her emotions only by great effort. For the first time she told the family version of her son's throwing the drinking cup out of the window at his sister's wedding to the Earl of Yarmouth.

"How did Mr. O'Mara get into the case?"

"He came through gratitude. His part was similar to Milton's angels, 'ministering to all who were in trouble.' Most of his efforts were devoted to watching detectives for the State to prevent them from spiriting away witnesses material to my son's case."

Brings Family Chart.

BATES NOT TO FIGHT 'BIG BOSS'

Former Governor John L. Bates, in a statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day, made it plain and positive that he is not a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge.

Emphatically he says: "I am not a candidate for the United States senatorship, and cannot consider even the possibility of being one."

Senator Lodge's term expires in 1911. There have been murmurings of opposition to his return to the Senate for more than two years. The opposition has not been confined to any one particular section of the State, but has been widespread and general. That the Republican State machine, of which Senator Lodge is the boss, has been too dictatorial in the matter of nominations and in respect to matters of legislation is the opinion entertained by many Republicans.

Favored by Machine's Foes.

The anti-State machine Republicans for some time have looked upon former Governor Bates as an ideal man to oppose Lodge, inasmuch as they claim he stands for the things in politics that Lodge opposes, and has opposed a great many which Lodge favors. A great many Republicans will harbor the suspicion that the former Governor was defeated for a third term because of the lack of support given him by the State organization, and in many quarters it is freely hinted that Lodge was not sorry when Bates was defeated.

It is understood that former Governor Bates has been strongly urged to hold himself in readiness to oppose Lodge at the next senatorial election, and has received many assurances that men friendly to his interests would make a fight for election to the Legislature next year.

Admitting the facts, former Governor Bates declares that he will not lead the fight, in the following statement:

Will Not Consider It.

"I am not a candidate for the United States senatorship. I foresee no contingency that possibly could cause me to become a candidate. The mention of my name is a spontaneous expression of feeling in regard to the matter on the part of my friends. But I am not a candidate and cannot consider even the possibility of being one."

Mr. Bates favors the income tax amendment to the constitution, believing it sound and student in every way, and that the majority of States will favor it. Senator Lodge takes just the opposite view. Governor Bates differs with Senator Lodge on the tariff, believing in a more downward revision than the senior Senator favors.

300,000 STRIKERS IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6. — Additional troops were brought into the capital to-day to strengthen the government's position and to awe the strikers. The universal arming of the labor element gave promise of bloodshed and civil war throughout the entire nation, though the day began quietly. The number now on strike is estimated at 300,000.

The first violence of the strike occurred at Vesteras, but it was not of an alarming nature, and aside from a few bruised heads from flying stones and clubs, no one was badly hurt.

Troops arrested thirty strikers who had forced laborers to quit work. A melee with the populace ensued, and twenty-three of the prisoners escaped.

The employes of the Stockholm power station struck last night, and to-day their places were filled with soldiers.

Artillery Posted.

The artillery, logically being the first force to engage in case the strikers throw up barricades, and open warfare, is kept constantly prepared everywhere. The cannon, parked in the public squares, are held in instant readiness, and the artillery men are ordered to be prepared for action on a moment's notice.

One-fifth of the entire population of Sweden, 300,000 men, are engaging in the unique strike—unique because of the slight disorder despite the vast number of men engaged. From the walk out of a few hundred men in the woolen industries upwards of a fortnight ago, the numbers have increased until more than a quarter of a million men are out and the nation is paralyzed.

Workmen Are Armed.

The workmen are heavily armed as is proved by the unprecedented sale of weapons, but the firearms have not been put to use.

The strikers are enduring great hardships and they are bitter toward the industrial magnates and the government, but save for a few individual instances there has not been an outbreak.

The crippled industries are completely tied up. In the cities street car lines and cab lines are idle. Steamship companies are refusing upon soldiers to work as laborers. Ferries have ceased their operations.

The railroad men are expected to go out, but they have hesitated so far. The strike leaders to-day declare that the railroad men will soon join the ranks.

ATHLETICS IN HOT BATTLE WITH TIGERS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 6.—Detroit and the Athletics open up a vital series here this afternoon, with first place in the American League race hinging on the result.

The champions did not reach Philadelphia until nearly 3 o'clock this morning, and acting under orders from Jennings all hands at once went to bed. They got up at noon and expressed themselves as ready for the fray.

Jennings is confident that he will at least break even and said probably he would use Mullin and Branaer as his battery to-day, while Connie Mack expects to send Krause and Livingstone into the box.

Philadelphia is baseball crazy over the series, and although there are no double-headers to be played, it is likely that the attendances will be almost as large as those at Boston this week. The weather is fine and no prospect of any changes.

EMERSON BEFORE "SMELLING" BOARD

Superintendent of Streets Emerson appeared before the Finance Commission to-day and was questioned relative to the conduct of his department of the city service. The commission is making an investigation to determine how many of the recommendations of the former Investigating body have been carried out. Superintendent Emerson is the fifth department head to be summoned in this probe. He finished his testimony shortly after noon and the commission adjourned for the day. Later it is expected that they will make a report on the result of their investigations in this direction.

WALDORF SHOOTING CASE IS POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Mary Scott Castle, who is charged with having shot at William B. Craig, a lawyer, in the corridor of the Waldorf-Astoria, looked as though on the verge of collapse when the case was called to-day in Jefferson Market Court. Her lawyer asked for a delay, while Craig protested vigorously, but Magistrate Butts consented to postpone the examination. Captain Henry Harrison Scott, U. S. A., brother of the accused woman, is on his way here from Alabama to assist in her defence.

CRUISER SALEM TO RECEIVE NEW TEST

ROCKLAND, Me., Aug. 6.—The scout cruiser Salem will come here for a government trial, August 11, on the Rockland mile course, according to information received to-day. Since the turbine engines of the Salem have been repaired she has made much better speed under service conditions than her consorts, the Birmingham and Chester, and the new trial is to learn what her speed is under trial conditions.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 6.—Boston Doves were in a scrappy humor before going into the last game of their series with the world's champion Cubs. So far they have failed to take a game, and the series stands: Lost 4, won 0.

Manager Smith was after his men to get together and take at least one contest of the five. They will have to win to-day's to get a victory to their credit, for they pass on to Pittsburg to-morrow.

Smith was again in a quandary about a pitcher. He had Ferguson and Mattern scheduled to work in the double header yesterday, then changed his mind and did not use either. The chances are that one of them will start the last game, as both were on the warming pan in the preliminary practice.

Looks like Stner might replace Sweeny on third. The latter in the first two games of the series did not seem to be able to locate first base. Apparently he was afraid of an overthrow, for he kept dropping the ball about five feet in front of the bag, with the result that his errors were responsible for numerous runs. Stner was played on the bag yesterday and played it well. Not in a dashing or brilliant manner, but he was always in front of the ball and he had no trouble in getting it to first ahead of the runner.

Graham may do the catching to-day. Manager Smith believes in working one catcher all the time. He declares that when a catcher spends a part of his time on the bench that he loses part of his effectiveness. Graham was struck on the thumb by a foul tip, and to-day his left thumb was considerably larger than it should be. The injury will keep him out.

Kroh was Manager Chance's selection for the 9th. This is a gradual change from the Doves in the last series in Boston, and took the opening game of the present series. He will be sent after the last.

BURDETTE PLACED IN PLASTER CAST

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Robert J. Burdette, humorist and Baptist preacher, who is seriously ill from an injury to the spine sustained in a fall last March, has been placed in a plaster cast. His spinal cord has become affected, and the physician in attendance says that his body must be held rigid for several months.

CROWDED CAR JUMPS RAIL IN SOMERVILLE

Twenty passengers, a dozen of whom were women, were badly shaken up and terribly frightened to-day when an electric car upon which they were riding toward Boston leaped the track on Highland avenue, Somerville, near City Hall, shot diagonally across the street, passing over the outward-bound track, and crashed up against the curb.

The car was bound for Scollay Square and was No. 1081. It was bowling along at a lively rate and had struck a single track, the other one being out of use because of a new line of rolling, when the front wheels left the track and the car shot across the street.

The women in the car began to scream and the men leaped on their feet and made a start for the doors. The motorman stood his ground, but was powerless to check the car.

The car bumped over the outward tracks and then shot over a course that covered in all more than 200 feet, when it came to a sudden and violent stop against the curb.

Some of the passengers were thrown from their seats and other hurled against the backs of the seats. One of the windows was shattered by the impact of the car against the curbing. The fender was smashed.

A large crowd gathered and the women passengers were helped from the car and taken into a store, where they received sufficiently to resume their journey to the city.

A delay in traffic of three-quarters of an hour resulted.

BERLIN, GERMANY, HAS A SIGEL CASE

FRANKFORT, Germy, Aug. 6.—The murder of a white woman by a Chinaman, somewhat similar to the murder of Elsie Sigel in New York last June, occurred in this city to-day.

Tien You, a Chinese merchant of Berlin, actuated by jealousy, shot Hildegard Hoffman, a music hall singer, and then turned his revolver on himself. Both died within a few minutes.

BROOKLYN GETS ONE MORE.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 6.—President Ebbetts of the Brooklyn National League baseball Club announced here this afternoon that he had bought another player named Meyers, making a total of thirty-seven men on his list.

$165,000 FOR "WAR" GAME BY THE STATE

The coming maneuvres of the Massachusetts militia will rest the State approximately $165,000, according to a statement made to-day by Adjutant General Brigham. The pay of the men in the Massachusetts defending force in the big war game will not exceed $140,000, including the pay of officers, which is upon a per diem basis ranging from $3.50 for a subaltern and 45 for a captain to $15 for a brigadier general. To this amount $10,000 has been added for the cost of transportation and $15,000 for subsistence.

While no figures are available concerning the expense to other States, Adjutant General Brigham is of the opinion that none of them will expend for this tour of duty more than the usual amount at least so far as pay and subsistence are concerned. It is understood that the national government is to bear the expense of transportation for the troops of other States.

M'CABE TO-DAY ACTING MAYOR

President George G. McCabe of the Common Council is acting mayor to-day.

Mayor Hibbard has left town to be gone until Monday, and Chairman Brand of the Board of Aldermen is in New Boston, N. H., so that the presidency of the Common Council of the city council took the helm to guide the city's affairs properly to-day.

The first official action of the acting mayor was to abandon the open door policy pursued by Chairman Brand when he was temporarily the office of the chief executive. The door to the mayor's inner office remained closed and those who desired to see Acting Mayor McCabe were obliged to pass through the outer door.

Acting Mayor McCabe affixed his signature to about $37,000 worth of pay rolls and transfers, after he had disposed of the usual number of friends and City Hall employes who called to wish him good luck.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 6.—Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion, was arrested here to-day charged with having run down and damaged an automobile in Woodstock, Ont., while speeding through there in his car.

Johnson wished to be fined and released, but was held for transfer to Woodstock.

CHINAMAN IS HELD FOR OPIUM SELLING

Charged with keeping an opium joint, which the police say supplied a number of drug fiends of the South End, Goon Poy, a laundryman of No. 44 Dover street, was held in $800 bail by Judge Dolf in the special session of the Municipal Court to-day. His case will be heard to-morrow. Sergeant Keene of the East Dedham street police station testified that when the laundry was raided 133 boxes of opium and a layout were found. Officer Solomon of the Dudley street station testified that on two occasions he had purchased twenty-five cents' worth of opium, no questions being asked.

BOSTON DEBT UP MILLIONS

The gross funded debt of the city of Boston has increased $2,384,400 since January 1, according to the monthly exhibit of the city auditor, made public to-day.

The net funded debt of the city has increased $1,784,362.53 in the same period. The gross funded debt of the city on July 31 was $111,049,000. The net funded debt at the same time was $74,260,780.

At the beginning of the fiscal year the city had the right to borrow $2,874,646.32, and this amount has been reduced through the issuance of loans for various improvements until at the present time the right of the city to borrow is limited to $346,146.53.

TAFT STARTS FOR BEVERLY IN GAY MOOD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The famous Taft smile was seen once again in Washington to-day. The President temporarily laid aside the cares of state while he made preparations for his departure for Beverly, Mass., to join his family late this afternoon.

This was a gala day—a sort of general day, as it were. Senators and Representatives, department heads and lesser lumbereles all rushed away, some homeward, some mountainward and some to the seashore, but many of them before departing wished to shake Mr. Taft by the hand, congratulate him and wish him a pleasant stay in the Summer capital.

Washington will be to-night the corpse of the busy lawmaking centre which has seethed and buzzed and echoed with tariff oratory through the previous days of the Summer. The rush started last night immediately after the adjournment of Congress, gaining impetus until the climax was reached to-day.

The tariff dinner given by President Taft last night was notable for the absence of all insurgents who had fought the President's attitude. The great number of guests were department head and members of the Senate finance committee and the House ways and means committee.

President Taft leaves in his private car at 5:33 o'clock for Beverly this afternoon.

On the trip to Beverly, the President will be accompanied by Captain Archibald W. Butt, his military aide, Secretary Fred Wenner Carpenter, Assistant Secretary Rudolph Forster, two secret service men and several clerks and messengers.

The party will leave in a special car which will be attached to the regular Federal express, which is a through train to Boston.

President Taft held a special cabinet meeting at 11 o'clock to-day, the last until he returns to Washington from his Western and Southern trip early in November. The meeting was merely to finish up the loose ends of government business. The President has received from each of his deputy chiefs their estimates and recommendations for the next Congress. These the President will use at Beverly in framing his message for the first session of the Sixty-first Congress.

ALL BEVERLY AWAITS COMING OF PRESIDENT

BEVERLY, Aug. 6.—President Taft is expected to reach here between 8 and 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. His train is due in Boston at 7 a. m.

The executive offices located in the Mason building were opened to-day for the installation of a cartload of office furniture, which was sent on from Washington to prepare for the arrival of the President.

The executive offices comprise a connecting suite of several rooms in the southwest corner of the building, all opening into the public corridor. Three rooms of the suite are generously offered to the President by the Beverly Board of Trade. The largest room in the suite has been reserved for the President's secretary.

Adjoining the secretary's room on either side are the reception room and the telegraph room. In the latter special wires are being installed to connect with all the big bureaus and Cabinet offices in Washington. Special code operators of the government, under Chief Operator Saulthers, will come here with the clerical staff, who will be installed in two rooms connecting with the telegraph room.

The secret service agents will be installed in a room adjoining the reception room with a supply room across the corridor.

Taft's Apology For Tariff Bill.

"THE bill is not a perfect bill nor a complete compliance with the promises made, strictly interpreted, but a fulfilment free from criticism in respect to a subject matter involving many schedules and thousands of articles could not be expected. It suffices to say that except with regard to whiskey, liquors and wines, and in regard to silks and as to some high classes of cottons—all of which may be treated as luxuries and proper subjects of a revenue tariff — there have been very few increases in rates."—Statement by President Taft.

QUIMBY IS HELD IN BAIL OF $1,500

On the charge of larceny of $1,250 from Herbert E. Davidson, president of the Public Library Bureau, No. 530 Atlantic avenue, George B. Quimby, a real estate man, forty-six years old, of No. 525 Massachusetts avenue, was arrested on a warrant by Inspector Mclarr to-day. Quimby was arraigned in the Municipal Court and pleaded not guilty. He was held in $1,500 bail and his case was continued. It is alleged that Davidson indorsed a note to Quimby with the understanding that the proceeds of the note should be used by Davidson's property. Quimby, it is alleged, cashed the note and kept the money.

Lew Shank, an auctioneer, has 8,000 majority for the Republican nomination for Mayor, and Charles Gauss, a tinner, has 3,500 majority for the Democratic nomination. Both are anti-machine men. LEAGUE CLUB GET LICENSES

The necessary approval having been given by the police officials, the licenses of the American League baseball club and the National League club were issued by License Clerk Casey of the Mayor's office this afternoon.

The licenses are issued upon the condition that the management co-operate with the police in every way possible to suppress the gambling nuisance which has been carried on by a certain class of regular patrons of the park. The police admit that it is very difficult to convict this class of offenders, and being of the belief that the management of the two parks did not lend sufficient effort to assist them delayed their approval of the applications for an annual license.

After conferences with the Mayor, the club officials and the police, satisfactory assurances have been given that a strenuous effort will be made to checkmate the evil and the licenses have been issued.

COMMITTEE AGAINST POSTAL BANK PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—One of the most important pieces of legislation that will engage the attention of the House next Fall is the postal savings bank plan. Speaker Cannon has made no bones of his opposition, and an analysis of the House Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads reveals the fact that the committee has been packed against the bill. Representative Weeks of Massachusetts, the new chairman of the committee, is on record as opposing the postal savings bank proposition.

POSTPONES TRIAL OF MISSIONARIES

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo, Aug. 6.—A postponement until September 24 has been made in the trial here of two American missionaries, Rev. William Morrison and Rev. W. H. Sheppard on charges of libel. The circumstances are such that the suit is considered practically as brought by the Belgian government.

Darius Cobb, the Boston artist, is seventy-five to-day. He is hale and hearty, and has received the congratulations of many friends upon his anniversary. When younger Mr. Cobb paid much attention to athletics. This, he feels to-day, carried him through the privations of the Civil War and laid the foundation for his present soundness in mind and body. He considers himself good for a quarter of a century more. He is at present engaged upon painting his masterpiece, which represents the last surviving comrade of the G. A. TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Royal Blood in Veins of Katherine Elkins.

LONDON—Mrs. Albert Levin Richardson of Baltimore, who has been in London for two years making research in reference to the English origins of seventeenth century American colonists of the upper classes, has incidentally discovered that Senator Davis's forebears trace their descent away back to D. 814 in the time of Charlemagne through many generations of Italian Kings. Considering this very interesting when taken in connection with the recent engagement of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins, who is Senator Davis's granddaughter, Mrs. Richardson submitted her proofs to the Heralds College here, the authorities of which rigorously examined the documents. The proofs were passed as absolutely impeccable. Neither Senator Davis nor Senator Elkins, nor any member of the families, was cognizant of these facts. Consequently they do not know that the blood of Italian Kings flows in their veins.

LONDON—Frank J. Mackey, an American multi-millionaire who spends most of his time and money in England and leases a famous country place at Leamington known as Beauchamp Hall, was fined $8 by a Leamington magistrate for riding a horse on the sidewalks. Leute, who was on his way to take up the duties of his new post as Vice and Deputy Consul-General at Zurich, Switzerland, died in the arms of his young bride on board the steamer Marquette just as the vessel was entering the port. Mr. Leute had served the State Department at Mannheim, Germany, but his commission to the American consulate in Zurich was issued only on June 3 last. He sailed from Philadelphia on July 23.

"Indian Masses Loyal."

LONDON—In introducing the Indian budget in the House of Commons Right Hon. Alexander Murray, Master of Elibank, Parliamentary Under Secretary to the India Office, stated that India's present condition was very hopeful, though owing to past depression there was a deficit of $16,150,000. Referring to the murder of Sir William Curzon Wyllie, he said that amid all the foul deeds of a few seditionists the mass of the peoples in India remained unmoved.

UNCLE SAM'S $50,000 'JOY RIDE' READY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Senator Theodore Burton and Major Mahon of the United States army have figured out as nifty a $50,000 joy ride to Europe as any collection of middle-aged, sedate and dignified gentlemen have ever attempted.

Uncle Sam gave his Waterway Commission $50,000 a year ago to spend in rubber-necking around Europe, Asia, Africa, the United States and Missouri. Not only did he give them the money, but, fearful that they might economize on their joy ride, he permitted Congress in its closing hours to write into law a provision which, when boiled down, reads: "Boys, go as far as you like." This provision gives Mr. Burton the privilege of taking anybody he wants along with his commission and paying them a salary for their company.

The joy ride begins Saturday. It starts from New York on an ocean greyhound. Decision on which one to take has not been made. As a starter most any ship will do just now, but on October 16, when the outfit starts back the ship will have to be pretty classy, because by that time the Congressmen will have been carefully schooled in high-priced European style.

A hungry lot of twenty guests will join Senator Burton and Major Mahon. There will be Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, a portly gentleman with a bald head. Mr. Gallinger is a doctor by trade and an upward trend bolsters by occupation. He enjoys a good meal, likes his cigar and hasn't been caught when he was laughing since Senator La Follette made his last tariff speech. He is vice-chairman of the commission.

Senator Piles of Washington might be classed with the younger set. He will not put on the clutch at anything this side of Amsterdam.

It is enough to say that Senator William Alden Smith is a newspaper man, descendant of Captain John and Pocahontas, with a typical Michigander's ability to rubberneck around Europe.

Senator Lorimer of Illinois got in on a foul. He was in the House when he was appointed and he holds on as a Senator. Lorimer is a Chicago politician. He was a motorman once and lives in the Washington Y. M. C. A.

CLARA MORRIS WRITES a beautiful, sympathetic story, "Two Orchard Brigands," for the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

MET 4 WEEKS AGO; WED IN AUTOMOBILE

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—While their automobile was running at low speed on the thickly shaded banks of the Des Plaines River, near Maywood, Miss Daisy Kent of Davis City, Ia., and Guy D. Wheelock of Maywood stood up and were married by the Rev. Hiram Brown of the Neighborhood Methodist Church of Maywood. Mrs. Wheelock had known the bridegroom but four weeks, having met him while on a visit here to her uncle, Justice Pitt of Maywood.

WOMAN HURT IN STREET CAR CRASH

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Half a dozen passengers in a Port Morris trolley car in One hundred and Thirty-fifth street were hurt to-day when a northbound Madison avenue car crashed into it at the junction of the two lines. Passengers in both cars were thrown into a panic. Mrs. Lena Solomon of No. 214 Wyckoff avenue, Brooklyn, was so badly crushed about the body. She was taken to the Harlem Hospital.

UTLEY AGAIN ON GRILL IN SUTTON CASE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 6.—Lieutenant Harold H. Utley was again through the mill of cross-examination to-day when the Government inquiry into the Sutton tragedy was resumed.

Before the actual taking of testimony commenced Judge Advocate Leonard defended his action of yesterday when he informed Lieutenant Utley that he need not testify unless willing, because he is now a defendant.

"I want to go on record as saying that it was my duty to notify Lieutenant Utley of his position," said the Judge Advocate.

With the stenographic report of the testimony of Lieutenants Willing, Adams, Osterman, Bevan and the others who have testified before the court, and with a certified copy of the proceedings of the first board of inquest on the table, Mr. Davis, attorney for the Sutton family, constantly paid to Utley what those men had testified to and as constantly fired at him the question: "Is that correct?" or, "Is that your recollection of what happened?"

Finds Memory Bad.

On unimportant points Utley unhesitatingly answered "Yes" or "No" but when it came to a question with a really important bearing on the case, he followed the lead of the officers who have preceded him and "could not remember."

Bearing in mind the previous admonishment by the court yesterday, Utley replied to his questions in a loud, clear voice, and although sitting directly across the table from Mr. Davis, he faced up the table toward the court in front and the judges, and hardly once would he look at the opposing attorney.

The constant reading of his direct testimony given yesterday and his discourses before the previous court of inquest and their wide discrepancies soon brought out by Mr. Davis, with the question: "Which of those two statements is correct?" got on the witness' nerve and he protested to the court.

Witness Loses Temper.

"After the cry, 'He has killed Roelker,' the shot was fired. As I remember, the cry was made while Sutton's hand was in motion," testified Utley.

"You testified at the inquest, 'I did not see; I felt his hand going up.' Now you say you saw the hand go up. Which is right?" asked Mr. Davis.

"I can only say, sir, that I was conscious that the hand was going up," snapped Utley.

Utley admitted that he was sitting on Sutton when the fatal shot was fired. Asked whether he was holding Sutton's arm and whether his hand came in contact with Sutton's hand which held the revolver he replied that his hand had touched Sutton's; that he was conscious of Sutton raising the revolver, but he could throw no further light.

Utley's testimony had been widely at variance with that given previously and he grew cool and calm in the face of the merciless fire of Mr. Davis's questions.

A verdict rendered by the admission of an alleged threat of Sutton against his brother-in-law, Roelker, would be considered emphatically that he had introduced any remarks into the testimony to discredit the story of Kennedy, the private in the marines, who was nearby at the time of the shooting.

NEW STORIES OF WHITE IN THAW TRIAL

Thaw, going back as far as the great-great-grandfather of her son.

"This chart was made ten years ago by a member of the family, who was interested in genealogy," the white-haired witness explained with a show of pride.

"There were only two cases of insanity in the family. If you call feeble-mindedness from fright insanity, and I don't think it is, then a brother of mine was afflicted."

Q.—Tell us about the episode of the loving cup at the time of your daughter's wedding.

That cup was handed out the window by Lew Edward Parker to be carried over to a neighbor's where a party was being held. They wanted to drink out of the cup. I thought the cup had been stolen because it wasn't returned until midnight. The gardner, an Englishman, told me afterwards that it was the custom in England to throw a loving cup or glasses out of a window at a wedding. I don't know if his story was true but he told it to me. That is one of the thousand stories that were built in to keep my son in the asylum," Mrs. Thaw declared, defiantly looking at Jerome.

"The story of the butler was equally baseless. Harry didn't take a spann because the carriage he didn't arrive, but he did feel angry because the carriage in which he hoped to take Miss Nesbit to the hospital was late. That was all there was to that."

"The story of Harry's playing the piano would have been a very good one if properly told" the mother went on.

Friend of Reginald de Koven.

"Harry came home with Reginald de Koven, a great friend of his, and the composer played such beautiful music. The impromptu concert awakened us all and we enjoyed it until it terminated in a discord.

"Why was this story told?

"Those having Mr. Thaw's interest at heart distorted the facts in an honest effort to save his life.

"I was foolish enough to believe the alienists. Dr. Hamilton told me differently. His influence would get Harry to Matteawan, he said.

Harry would have a suite of rooms at the asylum and that with his influence he would be able to get him out of it. The facts were distorted by the alienists who said, 'Let the facts be distorted for all they are worth.' One of the stories about Harry riding the horse to death was a lie. The horse took the bit in his teeth and ran away, breaking a leg and being killed by a fall.

"The facts were unduly emphasized at the direction of our experts. For instance, Miss Phelps who testified at the second trial, had always been a searcher for the truth. When she had to tell her story at the direction of the alienists she felt very bad and cried so bitterly that I had to put her to bed.

Jerome Called Torturer.

"In view of the way Mr. Jerome has tortured my son I feel that I ought to make public something my counsel advised me to," Mrs. Thaw explained to Justice Mills.

"When we were before Justice Tompkins I heard Mr. Jerome in his own speech conclude: 'Thaw is now in Matteawan—where I hope he will remain for the rest of his natural life.'"

The witness leaned heavily on the marble rail around Justice Mills's desk. Once she raised the handkerchief to her eyes, but with an effort controlled her emotion and in a clearly voice concluded the statement.

"I hope I am not taking up too much time," she said to Justice Mills.

"Oh no, go right on," the court replied.

"I can never forgive Mr. Jerome for what he said, Mrs. Thaw continued. 'Harry told me that Mr. Jerome did not mean half that he said, and reminded me that the District Attorney had said when he heard Colonel Gardner arguing that my son was a paranoiac, 'What in hell is the old fool driving at?'

Harry Centre of Attraction.

"There is no doubt that Harry was the centre of attraction in the courtroom during the trials. Every one was staring at him. He did not walk in an unusual manner as the alienists said. The floor sloped."

To show the character of her son's associates before he met Evelyn Nesbit, Mrs. Thaw read a list of guests who attended a dinner to her son. It included the names of John J. Astor, William Jay, Ogden Goelet, Lady Paget, Oliver H. P. Belmont, Henry Clews and others.

Mrs. Thaw again broke down when asked to describe the condition she found at Matteawan.

"I suggested to a minister that the madhouse was the vestibule to the lower regions, and he said it was the lower regions itself," Mrs. Thaw said in a slow manner. "There is no effort made to care for the religious welfare of the inmates, and many of the unfortunate persons in the place on the hill sing hymns all day long.

"One day when I was there I heard a young woman singing a religious song only to be interrupted by the loud cursing of a male patient. I feel that if these poor people were given an opportunity to have religious instructions each night their conditions would be greatly relieved. Why, one day I was there I saw a man going around apparently with a telephone receiver at his ear. My boy told me that this poor man—" Mrs. Thaw was unable to go further. She sank back into the high witness chair and cried bitterly. Recovering, she continued "My boy said that this poor man was making his daily effort to telephone to Ireland."

Jerome Halts Mrs. Thaw.

"I wouldn't go any further along this line," Mr. Jerome mercifully interrupted when Morschauser asked a further question.

"This picture could not be more firmly impressed in my mind," Justice Mills said. Dr. Britton D. Evans was then recalled.

DISINHERITED, SHE FIGHTS FOR ESTATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The right of John McWhirter, a dealer in chemicals, at No. 290 Broadway, to enjoy the $20,000 estate left him last year by Mrs. Imogen T. Parmelee was protested in Surrogate's Court by Mrs. Grace P. Van Everan, the daughter of the deceased woman.

Mrs. Van Everan, who is an only child, twenty-three years old, alleges that undue influence was exerted over her mother by McWhirter when the last testament was made, which cut her off from sharing in her parent's estate. She charges further that McWhirter "completely dominated" her mother after the death of George E. Parmelee.

ELIOT CALLS BIBLE PARTLY ANTIQUATED

President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard says that many things in the Bible are antiquated. He made this statement at the Colonial Club in Cambridge in explaining to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter why he was not including the Bible and Shakespeare's works in his famous "five-foot library." He explained, too, that he has no intention himself of making the library a "six-foot" one, as reported from New York to-day.

"I have no intention of adding one foot to the five-foot library already commended by me," said he. "Any addition, or enlargement of an addition I have not given. The publishers may have in mind something of this kind, and are at liberty to do what seems best to them. The papers are stating a rumor as a fact.

"The publishers have paid me a lump sum of money for what has been done, and for a liberal education the five-foot library answers its purpose."

"Do you not think the Bible and Shakespeare should be included in your list?" was asked.

"These volumes will be read by everyone more or less. About the Bible—many things in this volume are antiquated and it is a question in many modern minds whether it is always advisable to advocate the reading of this to the extent of excluding many other books.

"However, the Bible will be always read and the same may also be said of Shakespeare.

"You may state that I have no present intention of putting on another foot. It has been talked about, but nothing has been done, and as far as I am concerned no additions will be made to the original list."

Dr. Eliot will spend some time at the Colonial Club until his new home in Cambridge is made ready.

BISHOP ANDERSON, WHO DIRECTED BIG CATHOLIC BAZAAR

SWEDISH LINE MAY SEND SHIPS HERE

Following advices from Sweden that Stockholm capitalists have purchased two modern ocean going steamers for the purpose of establishing the first direct passenger line between that country and America, efforts are to be made to have Boston one of the terminals in this country. Approval of this new service, the Boston Chamber of Commerce is to take the matter of establishing a Boston terminal into consideration, and the argument has already been advanced that such a move would tend to increase the business and importance of Boston as a port.

Archbishop O'Connell makes public today the official figures of the Charity Bazaar which was held last November in Mechanics building, and to which all the parishes of the archdiocese of Boston took part.

The receipts totaled $86,307.70. Of this sum, $50,000 was directed against the mortgage debt on the Working-Boys' Home at Newton Highlands. This payment reduces the debt on the home to $15,000.

NURSES HELD FOR PASSING BAD CHECKS

Three fashionably dressed women, carrying five trunks and a gorgeous supply of wearing apparel, two of whom the police say were formerly employed at the Taunton asylum for the insane as nurses, are under arrest in Chicago, according to leased wire dispatches from there to-day, charged with passing worthless checks at the Willard Hotel at Washington. They were taken into custody in their apartments in the Congress Hotel.

The prisoners gave their names as Mrs. M. C. Edwards of Philadelphia, Mrs. C. C. Olcott, said to be a daughter of Mrs. Edwards and Miss Cronk of Paterson, N. J.

The women were taken to the Chicago central police station. Miss Cronk at first insisted she was Miss Olcott's maid, but later admitted she had passed the checks complained of.

"I was sure they were all right," she said. "They were given to me by B. M. C. Durfee of Philadelphia, in payment for furniture I sold him. One was for $185, another for $60 and a third for $30. If they were not good, then I was imposed upon."

Simultaneous with the complaint from the Willard Hotel similar stories reached Chicago from the Fort Pitt Hotel in Pittsburg, the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel of Philadelphia, Young's Hotel, Boston, and the Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

At all these places the three women were said to have passed checks signed by "B. M. C. Durfee." All protested vehemently against their arrest, which they insisted was a gross mistake.

SAYS WIFE IS TOO FOND OF CIGARETTES

Alleging that his wife on November 1, 1906, was guilty of intoxication caused by the voluntary and excessive use of drugs in the form of cigarettes and that she was guilty of cruel and abusive treatment on that date, D. Wellington Fowler, a coffee broker with offices at No. 173 State street, has sued for divorce. The couple are well known in Winthrop and East Boston society, where their stormy married life has been a subject for gossip for two years. The suit will be heard at the next session of the divorce court.

Friends of both predict that there will be occational evidence of a spicy nature offered when the case comes to trial.

Although Mrs. Fowler had few intimate friends in East Boston and Winthrop during her three years' residence in those places, yet she was widely known because of her beauty.

The Fowlers were married three years ago. Mr. Fowler was a widower with a grown-up family of four children, while his wife had also been married previously, having been the wife of Herbert Bartlett, formerly of Braintree.

About a year after their marriage there was a stormy scene in the Fowler home in Winthrop and Mrs. Fowler departed. Shortly after Mr. Fowler was stricken with a malady that necessitated several surgical operations and confined him to bed for almost a year. A reconciliation was effected and Mrs. Fowler returned. When her husband got better another disagreement is alleged to have taken place and Mrs. Fowler again departed. That was nearly two years ago.

Mr. Fowler is making his home with his sisters at No. 24 Falcon street, East Boston. Mrs. Fowler is said to have again taken up her profession as a manicurist since she separated from her husband.

BRAGANZA WANTS HEIRESS TO PAY

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The engagement of Prince Braganza to Miss Anita Stewart seem beset with difficulties, embracing, according to all reports to-day, financial, religious and social objections.

According to club reports the first rift in the lute occurred when Braganza suggested that in addition to the marriage dot of $1,000,000, money be provided to settle his old gambling debts. The sawy Mrs. Smith, Miss Stewart's mother, promptly refused to agree to furnish.

The social difficulty mentioned is that the Duchess Dowager Joseph, who is welcoming the marriage, refuses to give Miss Stewart the title of royal highness, to which she is entitled as Prince Braganza.

PROGRESS PROMPTED MRS. STETSON ORDER, DECLARES FARLOW

Mrs. Augusta Stetson, New York Christian Science leader.

Regarding the removal of the offices of Mrs. Augusta Stetson, and fifteen other eminent Christian Science practitioners from the church building of the First Church, Scientist, of New York city, Alfred Farlow of Boston issued the following statement this afternoon:

"In many places throughout the country, the reading rooms have been used as waiting rooms for patients and practitioners' offices have been in connection with these reading rooms. These arrangements have doubtless sometimes been made for convenience sake, other times as a matter of economy, but, like many other arrangements which are useful for a period, it has been thought by the authorities of the church that they have served their day and that it is best at the present time that they should be discontinued; hence the recent by-law of the Mother Church.

"It should not be said that such by-laws apply to any particular locality. They are intended to provide for particular steps of progress and it is the custom of the Christian Scientists everywhere to accept these new rules kindly, and immediately put them into force.

"It is said that immediately upon the promulgation of this by-law, the signs of the practitioners were taken from the door of the First Church in New York city and their offices were vacated. This is evidence that the by-law has been accepted cheerfully and immediately acted upon by that church, and that there is no friction whatever concerning the matter."

MRS. STETSON WILL NOT DISCUSS THE EDDY ORDER

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson to-day refused to discuss the report that the recent by-law issued in the name of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, to the effect that no teachers or practitioners of the faith shall have their offices or rooms in Christian Science churches, is intended as a direct blow at Mrs. Stetson, who is the leading influence in the First Church of Christ (Scientist).

Mrs. Stetson refused to be seen at her home, No. 7 West Ninety-sixth street, this morning, and left word that she would not discuss the matter under any circumstances. A young man who answered the bell made the following statement, apparently in her behalf:

Statement by Proxy.

"We regard this simply as a progressive step. From the outset it has been the policy of Mrs. Eddy to institute changes when the right time came. For instance, when the Massachusetts Metaphysical College, of which Mrs. Eddy herself was president, was at the height of its success, and a long list of applicants was waiting for instruction, she closed the college in order that she might devote her time to the revision of the text book of Christian Science.

"Mrs. Eddy has withdrawn herself from the movement personally in order that her teachings might be demonstrated through the individual understanding of her students.

"Personal preaching was discontinued many years ago and a regularly prepared sermon made up by a central committee and composed of alternate references from the Bible and a Christian Science textbook, the sermons in the Christian Science churches being uniform throughout the world. The leaders who conduct these services are elected for a period of three years and are not eligible for a re-election in the same capacity."

Clashes of Authority.

It was said that Mrs. Eddy had caused the passage of the law for the specific purpose of getting Mrs. Stetson out of the church here, because mentioned as succeeded by Mrs. Stetson had displeased her.

Some persons familiar with clashes in authority which have occurred in the past between Mrs. Eddy and Mrs. Stetson said to-day that it was possible that when Mrs. Eddy's attention is called to the fact that the First Church she will decline to "go to" Mrs. Stetson's removal of the office from the church to the residence next door as a compliance with the new by-law.

A letter written to Mrs. Stetson by Mrs. Eddy and made public by the latter in the Christian Science Sentinel, one of the publications of the organization, throws some light on the feeling that exists between the founder of Christian Science and the woman who by many of her followers and friends is regarded as the leader who will succeed Mrs. Eddy.

This letter reads:

"Brookline, Mass., July 12, 1909.

"Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, New York City.

"Beloved Student—I have just finished reading your interesting letter. Thank you for acknowledging me as your leader, and I know that every true follower of Christian Science abides by the definite rules which demonstrate the true following of their leader; therefore, if you are one of these, your protestations and are doing as you say you are you will be blessed in your obedience.

"Animal Magnetism."

"The scriptures say 'watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation.' You are aware that animal magnetism is the opposite of divine science, and that this opponent is the means whereby the conflict against truth is endangered and developed. Beloved, you need to watch and pray, that the enemy of good cannot separate you from your leader and best earthly friend.

"You have been duly informed by me that, however much I desire to read all that you send me, I have not the time to do so. The Christian Science Publishing Society will settle the question whether or not they shall publish your goods. It is part of their duties to relieve me of so much labor.

"I thank you for the money you sent me which was given you by your converts. I shall devote it to a worthy and charitable purpose. Mr. Adam Dickey is my secretary, through whom all my business is transacted. Give up your best wishes and love to your dear students and church. Lovingly your teacher and leader,

"MARY BAKER G. EDDY."

BABY IS CARRIED AWAY BY A BEAR

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—A special from Cheongan, Mich., says:

Reports reached the city to-day that a large black bear had carried away a baby eighteen months old while the mother was picking huckleberries on the Mackinaw plains, about ten miles out of town. The mother had left the child sleeping in charge of another child eight years old.

MOTHER OF 6 WINS IN PLEA BEFORE COURT

Mrs. John Christie of Hyde Park starts in with renewed energy to-morrow to work and to show Judge Hutchinson of the Dedham district court that she is able to provide for her six little children. She has three months to do it in. If she does pretty well the first month she can get back her eighteen-months-old baby, Margaret, as a starter. Meanwhile all the children will be cared for at the Home for Destitute Catholic Children.

The list starts with the seven-year-old Johnnie. After him come Josephine, ten; Mary, seven; Julia, five; Minnie, three, and the baby.

John Christie, the husband and father, has been sent to the Rutland Sanitarium to be treated for consumption. Neighbors in Water street county, Hyde Park, complained to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children that Mrs. Christie was unable to provide for the youngsters and that they were being neglected. Under that charge the little ones were brought before Judge Hutchinson in the juvenile session at Dedham to-day.

Mrs. Christie pleaded to be allowed to keep her children with her, saying she was doing washing and any other work she could get. She begged especially to have Baby Margaret, even if the others had to be taken from her. Finally Judge Hutchinson ordered the children to the home for three months and continued the case to that time to give Mrs. Christie a chance.

RICH TRAINER IS DIVORCED

Back of the signing of the divorce decree granted to Mrs. Hannah Chipchase of New York two days ago in Supreme Court, is a romance of the turf, in which a poor stableman became the owner of a string of blooded mounts, with an independent fortune of his own. The boy, who eloped from his English home twenty-six years ago with the woman who now is separated from him, is George Chipchase, a noted horseman and manager of the horses owned by Judge William H. Moore, the New York and Chicago millionaire, whose Summer home is one of the show places at Pride's Crossing.

Chipchase, who is well known on the North Shore, has recently returned from London, where he figured in the phenomenal triumphs won by the Moore stable in the International Horse Show in June.

The day before Chipchase sailed for England Mrs. Chipchase filed suit to give a bond with a New York bank in order to guarantee the payment of the wife's alimony pending her suit for divorce. This action, in which she named more than one co-respondent, was tried before Maurice Delehanty, referee. He recommended and the Court confirmed it to-day. The papers in the case were ordered sealed.

YACHTS RACE FOR ASTOR CUP

NEWPORT, Aug. 6.—The race for the Astor cup began to-day. At 10:30 a. m. the competing boats of the New York Yacht Club fleet, which came here on the annual cruise, started from a point which was named at Brenton's Reef. The reef is thirty-eight miles away. The wind was northerly and moderate, although the sky was dark, yachtsmen said it was pretty good racing weather.

The yachts in the race are the schooners Queen, Elmina, Corona, Aloha and Mineola and the sloops Vigilant, Winsome, Westmoor, Avenger, Adventuress, Aspirant, Dolphin and Istalena.

The sailing yachts were accompanied over the course by many steam yachts, and there were excursion boats crowded with enthusiastic spectators, who followed the races.

Society took its usual deep interest in the race. It was witnessed by as fashionable an audience as America can provide.

BARS PLAN FOR STADIUM BRIDGE

Plans of a wealthy Harvard alumnus to replace the North Harvard street bridge leading to the Harvard Stadium with a handsome concrete bridge, several years have been blocked, it is learned to-day, by the refusal of the War Department to permit the removal of the old drawbridge, which is a ramshackle wooden affair. The War Department takes the stand that the proposed bridge, which would be built without a draw, would be a hinderance to commerce.

BINGHAM MAY HEAD CHICAGO'S POLICE

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Rather than displease his wife and some of his closest political friends, Bernard J. Mullaney, secretary to Mayor Busse, has decided that he would rather continue in his present position at $5,000 a year than be a chief of police with $8,000 pay. Although Commissioner Bingham of New York, who was recently removed by Mayor McClellan, is being urged for the place, His strongest backer is Walter H. Wilmerding, controller who wired some good words for General Bingham from New England during the day.

STREET CAR MEN READY TO STRIKE

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—While the result of the referendum vote of the street car men will not be officially announced until presented to Presidents Mitten and Busch of the traction companies, it was estimated to-day by officers of the north side unions that at least 90 per cent. of the vote was in favor of compelling the companies to grant the demands made on the companies which is in effect a vote to strike.

BALTIMORE LIFTS PARK KISSING BAN

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6.—Lips pursed and lips puckered may now meet in osculatory bliss in Baltimore's parks, for the ban of years on kissing has been lifted. Gen. Ferdinand C. Latrobe, seven times Mayor of Baltimore and President of the Park Board, made public the good news to-day while he was opposing a proposal to put more lights in the parks.

"Is kissing permitted in the parks, now, generally" he was asked.

"Why, certainly it is," was the reply. "How are you going to prevent it? Human nature is human nature."

FIRE DOES $75,000 DAMAGE.

BELFAST, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Fire of unknown origin here to-day did $75,000 damage, about half covered by insurance. Fire Departments from Olean an Wellsville, nearby towns, subdued the flames.

'DIPPERS' OF IRELAND LET BEARDS GROW

DUBLIN, Aug. 6.—The third annual convention of "The Dippers," as the Coongeltz revival at Ballinamallard, County Fermanagh, is called, has already passed more than 2,000 converts. The sect believes that the millennium may be ushered in at any moment, and prayer meetings are held almost continuously. Men and women worship apart.

Sunrise finds the colony full of life, and evening is the quiet period all dress in the pilgrims dress in coarse plain clothing. The men are unshaven and wear rubber collars; on the heads of women are straw sailor hats. All are busily engaged in manual labor or domestic duties in between interval of devotional meetings.

Edward Cooney, the leader of the sect, is the son of an Enniskillen magistrate. He has a remarkable flow of language and his long sermons are interspersed with witty anecdotes. He preaches on the unworthiness of the church and the uselessness of worldly possessions.

A favorite hymn of the sect ends:

Neither carry scrip nor raiment,
Neither shoes nor staves;
Walk unharmed through the deserts,
Through the waves.

Baptism by immersion is administered in an adjacent stream.

No collection is taken up.

Coffee and tea are served free to crowds of visitors.

RICH TO SERVE SPAIN'S ARMY

MADRID, Aug. 6.—On account of the criticism of the system of exemption the government has from the military service upon the payment of $200, King Alfonso issued a decree to-day abolishing a money indemnity in lieu of service.

Much depends on the course the authorities decide to pursue regarding the prisoners that have been in the Montjuich fortress since the disorders of last week, whether or not there will be another outbreak. In the list of prisoners are several aldermen and a number of prominent republicans.

If these are condemned to death or given unusually severe sentences, it is said that 20,000 men are pressed to open a guerilla warfare against the government which bombs and incendiarism will play an important part. A prominent republican said to-day:

"The insurrection at first had the support of all the republican elements in the country, but now it is only the lower classes. Had it not been for the insane ferocity of the Catalonians everybody believes that the republican flag would to-day be flying over Catalonia."

ORDER JUDGE TO HEARING

Judge Hammond in the Supreme Court to-day issued an order of notice requiring Albert E. Clary, Justice of the East Boston Municipal Court, to appear in court and show cause why a writ of prohibition should not issue against him. The order was obtained by Attorney Josiah R. Fuller, counsel for the Lewis J. Bird Co., Broomfield street auctioneers.

The Bird Company obtained in the Superior Court a judgment of $441 against Joseph Miller who was asked to appear before the Municipal Court in Boston but failed to do so. The case was ordered on a default warrant in this civil suit but gave bail.

Within the thirty days provided by law he appealed to the Municipal District Court to take the poor debtor's oath but failed to appear. Then the writ and bail bond in question was dismissed. Since that time Miller has made a petition in bankruptcy in the East Boston Municipal Court and the Bird Company has filed a writ of prohibition based against Judge Clary on the ground that he has no jurisdiction in the matter, because of the dismissing made of the case by the Brighton court.

"IRISH" STREET CARS NOW FOR NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—As if to make Erin's sons rejoice, the green is to be added to the Interborough system. The "L" cars, now dark red, are to be painted an olive green, but the subway cars are to remain as they are. Painting will be begun at once on the change in color scheme, and will be continued until all the 1,600 cars on the "L" appear in the dark green. Within the last dozen years Irish names in large numbers have been switching to that restful hue.

$79 FINES FOR "CRAPS."

Fourteen crap-shooters paid total fines of $79 in the Cambridge District Court today. One case was filed. The defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $5. The foundation was made by Patrolman Keane and Sergeant Bingham of the Central square station. They entered the basement of a building and kept tabs on the crap-shooters gathered in a lot nearby.

SISTERS MEET FOR FIRST TIME IN 44 YEARS

FOUR SISTERS WHO HAD NOT SEEN EACH OTHER IN 44 YEARS

There was a happy reunion at No. 283 Walnut avenue, Roxbury, when four sisters who had not seen each other for forty-four years came together. They are Mrs. Mary Driscoll of Roxbury, at whose home the reunion is being held; Mrs. Catherine Ready of San Francisco, Mrs. Sarah Taughphas of Idaho Falls and Mrs. Elizabeth Meller of San Francisco.

As long ago as 1857 they all lived together in a house on Congress street in Boston, which was then known as the Fort Hill section, but which now has been razed. Their maiden names was Kane and all four were remarkable for their beauty.

When they parted in 1867, Mary had been the wife of Jeremiah Driscoll for ten years. The others married later. They are all grandmothers now.

When they found themselves once more under the same roof they had much to recall. The Boston of their youth, when they were members of the congregation of the old St. Vincent Church, then on Purchase street, has passed away. Their girl friends, too, are mostly gone. But Mr. Driscoll hunted up some of the "boys" who knew the Kane sisters and they have been calling at his home.

"It makes me young again," said Mr. Driscoll. "To have around me the men I knew during my courting days and it has made my wife feel better to once more see her sisters. It is the best forty years since we last saw them. We heard from them occasionally by letter, but it never occurred to us that they would be reunited in my home. I never expected to see them again. I cannot tell you how glad I feel. My wife is just delighted by the happy reunion."

Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll have two sons and two daughters here present. Mrs. Ready has a married daughter. Mrs. Taughphas has four married daughters and Mrs. Meller two sons and three daughters, all married.

WOULD BAR BILLY SUNDAY FROM CITY

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 6.—The Muncie Merchants' Association has adopted a protest against the bringing of Billy Sunday, the evangelist, to this city for a series of meetings.

The protest sets forth that the merchants are not opposed to church services, but they don't heed any undue excitement in the city, and above all things they want quiet and peace. They say that for about two years past business conditions in Muncie have not been as good as they formerly were, but that conditions are now much better, and they are anxious that nothing occur to hurt the rapidly improving situation.

NEW DIE ORDERED FOR LINCOLN CENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The die for the Lincoln one-cent piece, which bears the initials of its designer, Victor D. Brenner of New York, is not to be used any more, Secretary of the Treasury McVeagh has so ordered. In its place a new design will be used. The new die made, with the single initial "B," on its obverse, and the Lincoln cent pieces already minted will not be called in.

SEARCH CHINATOWN FOR SLAVE GIRLS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Agents of the Children's Society to-day are making a thorough search of Chinatown in an effort to find young girls held in slavery. Since little Moy You Toy and Fung Choy were taken from the men who, it is claimed, held them in bondage, the society has been constantly hunting for evidence of other similar cases. A representative of the organization said to-day that there are at least eight or ten other young girls held in slavery, and that a grown-up girl is valued at about $2,000 American. It is said that any delay in the hearing of the case of the two girls already in custody has been due to the wish of the society to push the campaign, which, it is promised, will have startling conditions.

G. B. SHAW GETS PARLIAMENT SNUB

LONDON, Aug. 6.—George Bernard Shaw was completely extinguished to-day by the joint committee of Parliament to inquire into the working of the dramatic censorship. After Shaw had seated himself the chairman, the Right Hon. Herbert L. Samuel, merely remarked in tones of the chief politeness that the committee, having heard his evidence on the last occasion, had no further questions to ask him, and briefly nonplussed, Shaw had no retort ready. He rose hurriedly and shot out of the room amid the tittering of the visitors. It was announced to-day that Shaw would sail for New York about August 18.

LOBBY DRIVEN FROM HOUSE BY SPEAKER

HARTFORD, Aug. 6.—In an effort to save a public utilities bill from defeat, Speaker Elmore S. Banks ordered the lobbyists of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad out of the hall of the House of Representatives.

The lobbyists, who had succeeded in securing the adoption of a bill of their devising in the Senate, were working on the floor of the House to defeat the original bill, while the vote was being taken. The Speaker observed their actions from his desk and at once sharply ordered the floor cleared of all but members.

Heat Prostration Heart Failure

are very rarely feared by those who keep their system in perfect condition. This is easily done by using as a medicine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Heart Trouble

Mr. Fred Bennett of West Carthage, N. Y., writes: "I thought I would write and give you my opinion of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have used liquor for the past 50 years, but not to excess. When in the English army, during the Crimean War, we were allowed three gills per day, and I know it was the means of saving thousands of men's lives during the winter of 1854-5. I came to this country in 1867 and went to work on a farm until 1893. Up till this time I had never seen a sick day, but after serving through the War of the Rebellion I had not been free from heart trouble.

"I have had a great many different kinds of whiskey for that purpose. Then I commenced using the different brands of whiskey, from which I received little or no benefit. When I read of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey I commenced using it, about ten years ago. I don't have any more heart trouble, and for a man 70 years old I feel quite active.

"Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has no equal as a tonic-stimulant and builder of new blood and tissue. It tones up the heart's action, soothes the nerves and keeps the body healthy and strong. It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, producing a liquid food requiring no digestion in the form of a pharmaceutical whiskey, which is one of the most effective tonic stimulants and invigorators known to science; its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold everywhere by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped on order for $1.00 a bottle.

Our Consulting Physician will send to every reader of the Boston American advice and an interesting illustrated medical booklet free of charge. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y.

THUGS KNOCK OUT MAN ON DOVER STREET BRIDGE; NO ARRESTS!

CITIZENS SCORE POLICE, DEMAND REAL PROTECTION BY THE FORCE

Gang Robs Man Only Seven Months in America of His Savings, and Police Get First Information of Outrage from the Bruised and Battered Sufferer.

How a man could be set upon by a gang of ten ruffians in such a place as the Dover street bridge, be beaten until he was unconscious and robbed of $90—every cent of his savings—allowed to lie half an hour senseless and then be compelled to stagger to the police station and tell his story, before the police knew anything about it, is one of the significant facts in connection with the disgraceful state the AMERICAN is making daily about the Boston police system.

The victim of this attack is Alexander Wilchinck of No. 199 Athens street, South Boston. He is employed as a tailor on Washington street in the South End. He was crossing the bridge at 9 o'clock last night when he was attacked and robbed. No arrests have been made.

Assaulted by Gang.

Wilchinck, who is twenty-four years of age, is to-day in bed at his home. His head is swathed in bandages and one eye is closed. This is his story of the outrage.

"I was on my way home. It was only 9 o'clock and there were many people in the street. There were lights everywhere. I was walking along, minding my own business, and started to cross the Dover street bridge. I never thought of danger. There were nine or ten young men on the bridge. Most any one would seem safe with that many men around.

"I thought the men were fishing. I did not think it could be a hold-up gang. I passed the young men on my way and did not say anything to them. I was not suspicious. There was no policeman in sight.

"I had passed the young men a short distance when some one ran up behind me and caught me around the neck. Then more of them piled on me. No one attempted to help me. They were all in it. I tried to cry for help, but my mouth was closed and my nose held tight.

Unconscious on Bridge.

"Then one of the gang hit me a fearful blow in the face. I dropped and did not remember anything for a long time. When I came to my senses I was where I dropped. No one was within sight. I found that they had robbed me of every penny I had. I had $90 in bills in the inside pocket of my vest. They took my vest open and took it all.

"I have been in this country only seven months and had saved the money by living inexpensively. I went to the police station and told the officers what had happened to me. I never would have thought such a thing could happen in such a public place so early in the evening."

Alexander Wilchinck, assaulted and robbed on Dover street bridge.

LETTERS SCORING POLICE METHODS ARE POURING IN

Letters and messages indorsing the BOSTON AMERICAN'S exposure of police and crime conditions in this city continue to pour in. Of a large number received in to-day's mail none is more interesting that one which appears to be written by a policeman of more than average intelligence, in which he makes defence of the Boston police, using arguments that are in common use by some policemen. He signs his letter "Station 10." The AMERICAN takes pleasure in reproducing it although the writer had reached the conclusion that this would not be done. The letter follows:

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Relative to the exposure of the police would you kindly answer these questions:

Why was such a "panegyric" written and published by you in December (or January), 1906, if you so entirely disapprove of the police?

Why did you allow such editorials as have appeared asking for decent pay and hours for the police so as to enable them to see more of their families?

Why are your stories of this matter so conflicting and contradicting if as they run be proof by your consulting back issues of your paper) the above queries can and are answered in the affirmative?

Do you know if H. L. Porter and "Constant Reader" can verify their assertions, especially that we receive money from street walkers? I don't say they do or don't, but can you or any of your reporters prove it in specific instances?

H. L. Porter (I say this to show I am neutral) is right about "fountain pen" praises.

When was written by way of "panegyric" in 1906 was then fully justified, he needs it, provided he is using his prisoner fairly, and not always in antagonistic to him?

How do you know that Boston is the only city where police trials are secret? Prove it. Volumes could be written on this, both pro and con, but you only seem to use the cons. Why not be fair? Of course there are bums and loafers on the force, but in what walk of life are there not? As regards barring reporters from trials, you know well that your paper and every other has reporters with very fertile imaginative powers, who write what they think, not the truth. Why do you object to enforcing the suits laws? What you say regarding the newsboys is hash. It is true many are sent in, but they are, as a class, a crowd of dirty little smoks. You don't dare say I know you won't publish this verbatim and give fair play and decency to the police, for which you pleaded editorially a while ago.

STATION TEN.

High Officials Domineering.

In reply to the writer's question the AMERICAN wishes to say that it has not now nor never has had reason to criticise the rank and file of the police force. It realizes, as does every good citizen, that the force is in the main sound. The AMERICAN takes issue only with the present system of administration, the disobeying methods of the high officials which is naturally taken as a keynote by many of the rank and file; the un-American methods of secret police trials and the suppression of crime which has resulted in a large increase of burglary and other crimes of violence, while too much time is wasted on petty offenders.

Whatever was written by way of "panegyric" in 1906 was then fully justified.

The AMERICAN is now dealing with conditions in Boston in 1909.

The AMERICAN still stands, as all of the Hearst newspapers wherever published have always stood, for decent pay and human hours for policemen of all ranks, for an opportunity for them to have the average man's family life, etc. The rest of "Station 10's" letter hardly needs comment, especially his characterization of the brave and hardy little newsboys, many of them supports of widowed mothers, and all doing an indispensable public service, as "a crowd of dirty little sneaks." If that is the verdict of the average police and high official mind, the citizens of Boston will waste little time in overruling it.

Comment on Panic.

All over the city there has been a perceptible tightening up of the police discipline. There were shoals of plain clothes policemen on the job in all the parks, avenues and white and red light districts last night.

In the notorious cafes where wanton vice held high carnival unabated for months there was an atmosphere of self-restraint and propriety which was almost oppressive and directed financially to the evening's takings.

Even the home-breakers seem to have concluded that this is perforce a period of rest for them, and there has been a lull in lying letup in looting.

Some of the additional policemen, the men who have seen "reforms" imitated and carried under many administrations, are caustic in their criticism of the panic shown by Police Headquarters when the AMERICAN'S first article appeared in print. One veteran declared that if he were in O'Meara's place he would be the AMERICAN "kept quiet" until it got itself and all the other Boston newspapers, too.

The very fact that the cops all began to pinch street walkers and others he said, makes the public conclude that the AMERICAN has the goods on Commissioner O'Meara and Superintendent Pierce. They ought to sit tight and let the AMERICAN howl until it gets black in the face.

Tells of Man Robbed.

The following letter is typical of many received, and is strongly corroborative of charges made by officials of the Watch and Ward and kindred law-enforcing societies:

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Now that you are exposing the police department, I would like to give you a little valuable information of the disgraceful conditions in one station.

A friend of mine was solicited on the street by a cab driver, and taken to a house in West Dedham street. All kinds of indecencies were held out to him.

They served him with a drink which put him out of existence for some hours and he had every reason to believe that he was given knock-out drops or something in the drink.

When he came to him senses he found he had been robbed of $16. He had a private talk with the police captain and all the satisfaction he got from that official was that he had no business going into such places and that he could do nothing for him.

Do you think that captain is fit to command a precinct? I have an intimate friend in the station and he told me that the woman who runs this West Dedham street place has two more on Washington street and one on Shawmut avenue. He tells me that she is under the same rule that one must never show up in the places and she gets other women to run them for her. She is, they say, the most notorious woman in Boston. She is said to pay $75 a month for each house to a man who undertakes to protect her from police interference. She gets tipped off whenever warrants are issued and gets all of her women and liquors out of the way.

My friend tells me that there are about fifteen houses running in the same precinct, and that they get tipped off the same way over the phone. I think it is a disgrace to the Commonwealth the way the police are running Boston. It is time the public should know and have their eyes opened.

J. H. KNOWLTON.

POLICE ACT! HALE PUSHCART MAN BEFORE A JUDGE

Grazed Somerville was indignant when he was arraigned before Judge Williams today in the Roxbury Police Court on the grave charge that he had allowed his pet and peppery pompadour to remain longer than twenty minutes in front of the ball grounds on Huntington avenue.

"I don't see why I am here under arrest," said Somerville. "Other men are allowed to sell peanuts and popcorn there. One of them said to me: 'If you want to stay there and not get arrested you must grease the policemen's hands.' That's what I do. I have not greased the policeman's hand, and I guess that's why I am here."

Judge Williams made no comment upon this outburst of the pushcart man. He was fined $5.

TURKEY NOW ON THE VERGE OF CIVIL WAR

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 6.—Aroused by the despotism of the young Turk dictators and angered by the relentless disregard of Generalissimo Shevket Pacha for the popular demand of a new cabinet formed of deputies, Turkey stands to-day upon the threshold of a new revolt, while the government is already preparing for war with Greece.

Nizat Bey and his Albanian followers, stirred by the stern dictatorship exercised by the Generalissimo, has sent an informal notice to the government from Monastir that unless the wishes of his element in Turkey are respected, an army will invade Constantinople and the country with again be shaken by civil war.

The resignation of Shevket Pacha is demanded in unequivocal terms.

HARRIMAN ON 'JOYOUS RIDE' AT MUNICH

MUNICH, Bavaria, Aug. 6.—E. H. Harriman, happy and healthy looking, has arrived here from Salzburg. The railroad magnate had ordered a suite of rooms to be held for his coming at the Hotel Continental, not knowing that Munich is overcrowded just now by Americans and other tourists who always throng this city in August. As a result of a lack of accommodations at the Continental Mr. Harriman was obliged to seek quarters at the Regina Palace Hotel, where he will remain during his stay here.

According to his secretary, Mr. Harriman's plans for the remainder of his vacation, the convalescent millionaire originally intended stopping in Munich only two or three days, but now that he has driven about the city he is so delighted that he declares he will spend at least a week and perhaps ten days in this first city of Bavaria.

Mr. Harriman's spin about Munich in a motor car called forth a question from a fellow American, who approached the railroad owner on his return to the hotel to ask pleasantly if his trip might not be catalogued as a "joy ride." Mr. Harriman replied with ready wit that it was a joyous ride, and explained that the difference between the two terms is merely one of daylight and darkness.

That he had been greatly benefited by the Gastein cure cannot be doubted by those who witnessed the strenuous pleasure doings of Mr. Harriman. He was on the go all day long, except at meal time, when he stayed in the hotel just long enough to sit at table.

SHEDS CLOTHES IN STREET; IS ARRESTED

James H. Buckley created a scene in Cambridge's conservative residential district early to-day by holding a progressive undressing party. James was the only player, but he lost the game, because Patrolmen Andrews and Odell caught him on the front steps of some one's home on Sacramento street before he got his undershirt off. A minute later and Andrews would have placed his last card, so to speak. Shoes, watch fob, stockings, shirt, trousers, vest, collar, hat and necktie were gathered in along the route followed by Buckley in his rambles. He was arrested for drunkenness, and his case was filed by Judge Almy in Cambridge District Court to-day.

IRISH LEAGUE TO MEET AUGUST 27

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A call has been issued by President Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia for a meeting of the national committee of the United Irish League to be held at the Hoffman House, August 27. Affairs of importance to the Irish movement are to be brought before the meeting. The gathering will also be avaited of its third farewell and godspeed to Edward Dwyer Gordon, one of the heroes of the "Manchester rescue" and a member of the national committee, who sails for Ireland, August 28.

BOY IS HELD FOR CRUELTY TO HORSES

John Hennessey, twenty years old, of No. 5 Ellery street, South Boston, was fined $25 to-day before Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court for cruelty to animals. He appealed and was held in $500 for the Superior Court. Hennessey was complained of by Agent Thomas Langley of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals about two weeks ago for beating four horses in a vacant field off Kemp street, South Boston, and not giving them enough to eat.

LABOR UNIONS OPEN WAR ON LEGISLATORS

Organized labor's fight against the men who helped kill its measures at the last session of the Legislature opens in Lynn to-night. The first shot will be fired by Representative W. E. Dorman, who, as House Chairman of the Committee on Labor last year, is credited with having killed labor bills, and who is seeking a re-election this Fall.

Thomas D. Driscoll, secretary-treasurer of the State Branch of the Federation of Labor, with other trade unionists, will address a meeting of the Wage Earners' Club in Machinists' Hall, No. 120 Market street, Lynn.

Following the meeting at Lynn, it is said that Driscoll and other labor speakers will carry the war into every representative district in the county in the State where the trade unions have any strength.

A list of all representatives and senators, with a tabulated voting record, showing how every man stood on the defeated labor bills, already has been prepared by the labor officials. It is now in the hands of the printers. When completed, this list will be sent to every local trade union in the State, and, if necessary, in special cases like that of Representative Dorman, personal visits will be made to these unions and every measure brought to bear upon them to defeat the men who helped to defeat labor bills in the Legislature.

ARREST YOUNG BOY; GUN UNDER PILLOW

Patrolmen Presbo and Leahy of Cambridge went to the home of fifteen-year-old Harry Blair on Little River street early to-day to arrest him on a charge of receiving a harness alleged to have been stolen from Frank L. Henderson, carriage manufacturer of North Cambridge. They found Harry sleeping peacefully in bed with his head on a pillow under which reposed a loaded thirty-two-bore hammerless favorite of latest pattern. They found twenty ball cartridges in the lad's knickerbockers too. They took Harry, his gun and the slugs to the station. They also arrested fourteen-year-old Charlie Couture of No. 24 Clifton street on a charge of being Harry's "pal" in receiving the harness. The lads will be arraigned in the Cambridge Juvenile Court to-morrow.

A Red Tag Sale Now On

To realize the importance of this sale you must understand that it is our semi-annual clearance, preparatory to stock taking, August 31st. This means selling at a loss all small lots, broken lots, overstocks, and all other seasonable merchandise that we don't intend to have in stock when another style period rolls around. It means a big loss from the standpoint of dollars, but a big advantage gained in the reduction of stocks.

Our plan is this: Whatever we wish to clear out at once, we put a Red Tag on. The original white price ticket remains on the article—the Red Tag shows the reduced price it is to be sold at. This puts you wise to the whole transaction—you see how deep the price is cut—you know exactly how much you really save.

POOR DOVES GLAD THAT TO-DAY IS LAST WITH CUBS

WARNING OUT AGAINST RECKLESS AUTO DRIVING

By J. C. KERRISON.

Do automobilists understand the rules of the road? This question has been brought prominently before many automobile clubs within the last few days, in view of the increasing number of accidents, some resulting in fatalities both to motorists and other users of the highways.

In many cases these accidents have been due either to ignorance of the ordinary rules of the road or to the supreme carelessness of automobile drivers in ignoring the simple regulations that conduce to safety. So flagrant has this tendency to recklessness become, in spite of the efforts being made by the leading clubs throughout the country to co-operate with city and county officials in observing the legal regulations, that a word of warning has been sounded by President Lewis R. Speare of the American Automobile Association, and the endeavors to control the present wave of recklessness have been seconded by the other officers and chairmen of the various A. A. A. boards.

"Many of the recent deplorable accidents might have been avoided by the observance of the simple road rules and sane driving," said President Speare. "There is also too much recklessness in crossing railroad and surface car lines, as well as passing electric cars in city streets, when passengers are alighting. Again, many motorists in descending hills, even if not very long or steep ones, persist in keeping practically the full power of their motor on. If more motorists would throttle down the engine, or totally disengage it, while descending a hill, the number of accidents from this source would be materially decreased. When the motorist finds himself in a tight place while descending a hill under full power or even partially so, and he loses control of his car it is the most natural thing in the world to instinctively the difficulty to the failure of the steering gear to work properly, whereas there would probably have been no trouble at all were the machine allowed to slow down gradually under its own momentum."

Some of the cardinal rules of the road which every motorist ought to know by heart and invariably observe are as follows:

1.—Keep to the right when overtaken and in passing automobile or other vehicle going in the same direction.

2.—Keep to the left when about to pass another vehicle going in the same direction; in other words, the automobilist should pass another vehicle going in the same direction, on the left-hand side.

3.—Pass to the right when meeting a vehicle moving in the opposite direction.

It has finally been decided that it will not be necessary to lengthen the Merrimack Valley Course for the 318-mile road race to be held September 8 at Lowell, Mass., though twenty-five cars are expected to make the start for the big trophy. The course is a little more than ten miles long half of it over a State highway along the bank of the Merrimack River, and the remaining running down a parallel country road. The cost of extending the course to fifteen miles would be very great, and the board of governors believes that the boulevard will afford ample opportunity for three or four machines to bunch or run abreast without danger of accident. One thing they recommend the course as it stands is the fact that the 250-mile road race of last year was run off without an accident of any kind, though in the presence of 50,000 people.

HOT GAME TO-MORROW AT NATIONAL PARK

The strong Library Bureau baseball team and the West End House meet to-morrow on the National League Grounds, and some lively work is expected. The Library Bureau has lost but three out of fifteen games played, and with their recent find, Dugan in the box, and their regular staff mainly intact, Rowe and Currier, if reserves, they will show some class. The West End House is out for the game, and has strengthened its team by securing Mendelsohn for the box, and a few well-known stars for the infield. A large attendance is expected, as the West End rooters and the Library Bureau fans have been looking forward to this event for some time past.

FUNNIEST STORY EVER—Read "The Grafting of Hank Hawks" in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

KAUFMAN WITH NEW MANAGER HUNTS KETCHEL

Al Kaufman has another new manager. Louis Blot is now in charge of the affairs of the Native Son heavyweight, and Morris Levy is apparently destined to spend his time on his self-continuous lunch instead of handling a prospective world's champion.

Kaufman is on his way to Seattle, where he is to box an exhibition six-round go with Doctor Roller with eight-ounce gloves on the hands, but before he, left for this alum fight, Al delivered himself of a statement of his position. The wording of the typewritten challenge which he hurls at Stanley Ketchel shows the fin- Italian hand of his new mentor, and is couched in mathematical terms which will cause Willus Britt working nights with his pencil in hand.

Here is how Kaufman arranges he affairs, after opening loudly manifesto with a denial of the assertion that he has been dodging Ketchel's matches.

"I will make the following proposition to Ketchel, Britt, Hall, or any Britt announced a few days ago that Ketchel would meet me for $17,500. Now, if the Nevada offer is bona fide, I will take Langford's place and allow Ketchel $17,500 for his end, win, lose or draw, and $20,000 of the purse if he stays over twenty rounds.

"If the Nevada offer is off, I will make the following terms, as I do not demand a guaranteed purse. If some of the local promoters will allow a reasonable percentage, I will allow Ketchel 4 per cent of the gate receipts over $10,000 for the boxers' end for every round he stays, merely reserving for myself 1 per cent to cover my training expenses, or I will allow him two-thirds of the contestants' share, win, lose or draw.

Dr. Roller's opponent then says that he makes this offer to justify himself in view of the fact that Britt has been talking considerably in an endeavor to place Kaufman in a wrong light, and winds up by stating that he is rather young to tackle Johnson yet, and intimating that when he puts one of either contests, while the aggregation from Salem has not yet met defeat. Bob Holley, the crack second baseman of Mechanics Art High, who is now managing the Crimsons, will probably select "Runt" Killorn or Howie Balkman, also of Mechanics, to do the pitching, while Charlie Williams will be on the receiving end.

JIM BARRY TO TRY AUSTRALIA FOR BATTLES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 6.—Big Jim Barry, the Chicago heavyweight, will next try Australia as a pugilistic field. The giant boxer, whose nationality has baffled the fight fans of two continents, announced to-day that he had received a cablegram from Kid McCoy, who is now in Paris, asking him to meet the tricky Hoosier in Sydney inside the next two months.

McCoy, it appears, has taken an interest in Barry and believes that by teaching Jim how to use his brains and feet as well as his fists that he can polish the Irish-French-Italian boxer into a high class heavyweight of championship possibilities. The present plan is for Barry to work under McCoy in Sydney for several weeks or until he has taken unto himself some of Selby's cleverness. Barry will then start out on a lemon-picking expedition through the Antipodes, something similar to Tommy Burns's now famous goat-getting tour. All of the old favorites will be in the cast. Squires, Palmer, Long, Smith, Moir, Roche and other husky tips show that McCoy can lay his fingers on will be brushed off and shoved into the ring for Barry to play with.

The Waldberg Idea

THE discriminating user of lager beer favors a beer that has a character and flavor of its own. It is difficult to produce a flavor that will satisfy the most critical, but absolutely comes up to the most rigid requirements of the man who wants a high-grade lager beer and knows when he gets it.

It excels for perfect condition and rich, full-bodied flavor.

FINE WEATHER FOR OARSMEN AT DETROIT

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6—Favored by perfect weather and racing conditions and with one of the largest entry lists in the history of aquatic sports, the annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen which is being contested on the river to-day and to-morrow promises great sport.

While to-morrow's card—composed mainly of senior events, bringing together the stars of the United States and Canada, promises to be the hardest fought and of international character there is plenty of good races on for to-day. The program is as follows: Intermediate double sculls, senior double sculls, intermediate four-oared crews, first and second heats of the association single sculls for seniors, International senior four-oared crews, and intermediate eight-oared shells.

Boston will be represented in the intermediate doubles by Howard Murphy and Everett L. Pope of the Boston Athletic Association and Murphy will also compete in the intermediate singles scheduled for to-morrow. There is much interest to be the result of the championship singles in which John W. O'Neil of Halifax, conceded by Frank B. Greer of Boston, will be pitted against a fast field of American scullers. Greer is a four-time winner of the championship race and holds the record made at Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, and states that his protege has been groomed to duplicate his feat.

A surprise was sprung on the rowing contingent when it was learned that Detroit had withdrawn from both senior four-oared races—the international senior fours of to-day and the senior fours on Saturday. This saved four of the Michigan senior eight from a gruelling and exhausting race to-day, and the whole crew will be rested and fresh on Saturday for the struggle of the eights. Two of the crew who have been ill have recovered.

STRAIGHT DOPE

FOR SPORT FANS

WELL, JEFF HAS WENT AWAY and the youthful Sammy Berger has come into his own again. Instead of being "with Jeff," the ubiquitous and eccentional Sammy is left behind, with permission to exercise his vocal chords to his heart's content in arranging the match between Jeffries and Johnson. Watch Sammy. Also watch for his daily skaw. Jeff clamped down the lid on him after that Montreal fiasco, but the clamp broke when the smoke of the George Washington grew dim on the horizon, and it is a safe bet that the effervescent youth will bubble over before Jeff gets out of the range of the wireless. His first one will likely be something about Jeff still being the champion and leaving the terms of the fight. And I am still offering to lay a little even money that the scrap never takes place.

HERE IS WHERE I LAY MYSELF open to the accusation of knocking, but what do you think about it? I see there is considerable agitation against the election of John Heydler as president of the National League, at the annual meeting in December, and I believe it would be to the best interest of the national game to select a new man. Heydler has been chosen to fill the unexpired term of Harry Pulliam and will carry out the policies of the former president. Heydler was a good secretary and may make a good president, but what is needed mostly in the organization is a man at its head who will find a way to prevent Brush, Dreyfus and Murphy from having a monopoly on the race for the flag. One way to do this would be to limit the number of players on a club to a certain, this could safely be made twenty or twenty-two and the surplus players now tied up by New York, Chicago and Pittsburg could be secured by the others clubs and the result would be closer contests and a general betterment of the sport. These three clubs now carry thirty-five to forty players each for no other reason than to prevent the weaker clubs of the league from getting them. The National is losing out rapidly to the American in popularity and a president who will break up the trust will be the Moses of the National League.' Heydler will not do this.

JIMMY WALSH, THE LITTLE BOSton mitt artist, is out with a dare to any one who can make weight to meet him for the world's bantamweight title. Jimmy claims to have the best right to the title and it looks to me as if he had the straight dope. Johnny Coulon also claims the honor, but as he won't fight heavier than 105, his grip on the bantam title appears like a bunch of bunk. The bantamweight has been 116 pounds since Terry McGovern and Feddler Palmer fought at this weight for the world's title in Tuckahoe, N. Y. on Sept. 12, 1899. Terry won the title by a knock-out in one round.

Walsh dates his claim to the title from this fight, and here is the way he figures it: McGovern outgrew the class and Danny Dougherty, of Philadelphia, who seemed the best at the weight, became his logical successor, but was knocked out in 1901 by Harry Forbes, and again in 1902. In 1903 Forbes was knocked out by Frankie Neil in two rounds in California. A match was arranged to be fought at Tonopah for a $5,000 purse, but Neil was unable to make weight, having grown heavy enough to move up into the featherweight class.

Jimmy claims the title was forfeited to him, and as he has never been defeated at the bantamweight, he still holds it. If any of you little fellows disagree with him, now is your chance to get busy.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
If a pitcher intentionally passes a player to first base and later that player tries to steal second, and is declared safe, is the pitcher forced to toss other pitches except the pitches fair and square in his hands and comes so fast he cannot hold it, is that an error?
G. B. B.

There is no "earned run" officially recognized now. There never was any interpretation by which a run which started with a base on balls could be called "earned." (2) It is a hit when it comes hard to hold.

WHAT DO YOU FANS THINK ABOUT this? Let's hear about it.

Say Mr. Dope man, what's the matter with moving the pitcher's box back to the center of the diamond. That would help the batsmen a lot. Why don't you start it now in Dull, a few inches back of the others. Even it up, I say. I also suggest an evening up scheme. I'd like to see what Matty, Brown, Old Cy and the rest of the varsity would do when they had to depend the ball up from way back in the middle batting averages would climb and there would be more hitting, more runs and more life to the game. You can start this one if you like, and I'll second the motion or make a counter argument on the first ball pitched. Come up the baseball statistics.
A REGULAR.

SAMMY FRIEDMAN OF YONKERS wants to meet any 95-pound boy ringside for the paperweight championship. What's the matter with the Armory Club matching him with Carmello Lippo, Boston's little "Caramel Kid," who can make eighty four pounds, but is willing to give away twelve or fifteen. Lippo is there with the punch, in spite of his watch charm appearance, and if they book I'm going to string along with the local midget.

The Syracuse A. C. of Dorchester claims the 14 and 15-year-old class championship in and around Boston. After winning 19 straight games with a rush to 20 it is known the tournament teams we have defeated. We have defeated such teams as the Richfield A. C., 6 to 0; the Forbes A. C., 9 to 0; the Mahoney A. C., 6 to 0; the All Stars of Dorchester, 7 to 0; the Hancock A. C. of Dorchester, 7 to 0; the Hancock A. C. of Dorchester, 7 to 0; the Columbus A. C. of Wellington, 5 to 0; the Columbus A. C. of Wellington, 5 to 0; the Columbus A. C. of Watertown, 6 to 5, and the Limeharas of South Boston, by a score of 12 to 0. The team is coached by Louis H. Sullivan, of Dorchester, now a registered athlete. His assistants are Walter Brooks, and George Sullivan, secretary and treasurer. The team is as follows: Catcher, Everett Corrigan and O. Mayo elected manager. The team was picked from twenty-seven players and the management would like to send to Oswald May, 46 Topliff street, Dorchester, Mass.

FREDDIE WELSH AFTER NELSON

By H. M. WALKER.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—Freddie Welsh's peace of mind during his present visit to his home country, Wales, is being sadly disturbed by the reports he hears concerning the lightweight situation. Evidently Welsh looks upon Battling Nelson as his own prey and resents the threatening attitude of Ad Wolgast and Packy McFarland.

Welsh cables the writer from Cardiff to-night as follows:

"My offer of $5,000 side bet to Nelson still goes. He should keep his promise and give me the first fight. As champion of England I am entitled to the preference over Wolgast or McFarland. Will fight both of the latter, but Nelson is man I want."

The best thing the little foreigner can do to protect his interests is to get back to this country by the first steamer. "Nelson and Wolgast" is an attractive card that the promoters are angling for. Then, too, the Dane made a statement in Chicago last week that he intended to give McFarland a fight and that he did not intend to be too strict about the weight.

HOT BOUT IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Young Kid Broad had a shade the better of Kid Locke in the windup at the Broadway A. C. The bout was a hard and rough contest from the first round till the tap of the bell at the end of the sixth. There was never a let up at any moment, and several times each of the boxers had to rest up for a few minutes for a further supply of wind.

KID SHEA TO BOX RYAN.

HALDWELL, Me., Aug. 8.—Kid Shea, claimed to be the little of lightweight champion of New England, who is visiting friends here, is signed to meet Jack Ryan, otherwise known as the "South African cyclone," of Montreal, N. B., next Tuesday night at Perth, N. B. The fight is scheduled to go ten rounds.

WOMAN CHAMPION COMING.

BOSTON AMERICANS DOUBLE

The Wise Man Duly Regards Public Opinion

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

"I CARE nothing for what people say about me," is an expression often heard; and those who utter it believe they have taken a very noble and brave stand in the world.

But that stand may be very wrong, or very right, according to the mental and moral balance of the one who takes it.

If you are setting forth on a path of duty or toward some difficult goal, which calls for self-sacrifice, and compels you to give up many of the ideas and conventions of society, then NEVER MIND what the world thinks or says of you.

Ignore it; shut your ears to its comments; close your eyes to its scornful or suspicious glances, or, better still, keep your eyes so fixed on your goal that you do not see these glances. If you feel in your heart that some man or woman who is under the world's ban will be strengthened and bettered by your championship, then NEVER MIND what people say about it; go ahead and do what your highest instincts prompt you to do.

If You're Right, Go Ahead

If, in order to obtain independence and financial freedom from obligations, and to retain your own respect, you feel that you must go into some decent line of work and leave the social circle, where you have been known as a dispenser of money, to become a wage earner, then NEVER MIND what the world says about it.

Your own reason, judgment and good sense are more important to retain than the approval of a superficial public. If your heart, aided by your head, bids you join your life to one you love and one who loves you, then NEVER MIND what the world says. Follow where love and loyalty lead.

In every case where it is a matter of high conviction and unselfish adherence to right, go ahead and NEVER MIND.

But where it concerns only your pleasures, your impulses, your appetites and passions, your love of admiration or power, or your vanities, stop and ask yourself "What will people say?" Public opinion has frequently proved the Guardian Angel of some mortal whispering in his ear, "What will people say?"

One Woman Who Didn't Care

A married woman, who loved her husband and was loved and trusted by him, declared her absolute indifference to the opinion of the world. She illustrated it by being seen frequently in public places, alone, with her husband's friend. The man was a bachelor, and his fiancee was living in another city.

Gossip naturally resulted; and the woman laughed and called it "ridiculous" and reasserted her indifference to what others of the world, so long as she knew she had done no wrong.

Yet she had made another woman unhappy, and had caused both husband humiliation and pain which might have been saved had she cared enough for a speckless name to avoid making food for gossip.

Her husband did not doubt her loyalty, but no man who loves his wife can avoid feeling hurt and belittled when her name is coupled with that of any other man in a questioning manner, however chaste he knows her to be in fact or act.

The young man who cares nothing for the opinion of the world frequently brings sorrow to the home of his friend. He is seeming to be more reckless or immoral than he is in reality.

To be a slave to public opinion denotes a weakness of character; but to be ready to defy public opinion for a great, unselfish motive, or through a sense of high duty, denotes nobility of character; but to ignore public opinion in order to indulge some vanity, appetite, passion or selfish impulse, is a certain proof of an unbalanced nature, lacking high ideals and good reasoning powers.

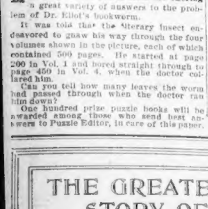
Can You Solve Dr. Eliot's Problem?



MEMBERS of the puzzle class are offering a great variety of answers to the problem of Dr. Eliot's bookworm.

It is said that the literary insect endeavored to gnaw his way through the four volumes shown in the picture, each of which contained 500 pages. He started at page 500 in Vol. 1 and bored straight through to page 400 in Vol. 4, when the doctor collared him.

Can you tell how many leaves the worm had passed through when the doctor ran him down?

One hundred prize puzzle books will be awarded among those who send best answers to Puzzle Editor, in care of this paper.

"At the Sign of The Bleeding Heart" By Nell Brinkley

"Inside its flowery arbor Love leans under his creaking sign, and beyond him in the scented shadow and sun patches laughs and loves a motley crowd"

AT THE SIGN OF THE BLEEDING HEART—have you ever been there?

It sits to one side of the Trail of Life. It's up out of the flat, unrevelful pleasant plains of the Time of Childhood, beyond the gateway into the mountains where the struggle and climb begin, and the cool places, and the springs, and the swift streams, and the gasping chasms.

It sits on the very tip-topest, highest spot of the hills, just where the road at the top of its climb bends to go singing down toward the other plains, where the old go and the end is.

There it is, the very highest, dizzy corrie of the crown of the range where the air is rare and breathes in like meat and drink—so tasty it is and sharp; where the vision clears and the world lies out like a top from end to end; every tiny thread of a creek, every niche, and pine, and shelter, and crawling man.

Love, they say, is blood, but his inn is where the air grows crystal and the Trail of Life and the country it twists through lies below it like a map, in its true meaning and colors.

And the folk who turn in there panting and eager wheel at his door to find the universe spread at their feet and their eyes turned into the crystal of a god's, who sees things as they are.

Down in the canyon bottom you can only see up and early the giant wall of the mountains towers around you and shuts out all but the sky, and the world seems that canyon bottom. But the Inn of the Heart is on the heights, the roof of the world, above the last mountain top, and the earth falls away from it to the circle of the horizon where the sky comes down all around.

Inside its flowery arbor Love leans under his creaking sign, careless, with a cast up eye and an apron round his middle, quick on his feet, warm in his welcome, the Fat Man of the Mountains who never dies and has fed and pleasured most of the world one time or another. And beyond him in the scented shadow and sun patches, under the swinging roses and purple grapes, laughs and loves a motley crowd. Old and young, and silent and talkative, poor and rich, and out-land and close at-home, eating of Love's brown bread and drinking his tingling ale.

And once in a while maybe a lonely and old man, solitary at his table drinking with a dream that never was, and another in his corner drinking to a little white ghost of the maid who dined with him once there long time ago.

A curious place—this high Inn of the Bleeding Heart!

Penelope and Percival Worked Bluff---By Kennett Harris

"IT'S not for—that is, we are looking for a friend—some friends, who are out of town."

Penelope made this explanation very sweetly, for a little haltingly, and the janitor received it with perfect respect and entire seriousness. Nevertheless, when Penelope turned her head, he pushed his man friend warming his slipper soles at his genial hearth. Where do you think your lady friend would like to have the piano?"

"I'm not at you," said Penelope. "But isn't it a sweet room! I think that's the most beautiful grill I ever saw. And what be-autiful little fluted pillars! What view from this window isn't so worse. We could get out on that balcony from mer evenings if we wanted to. That is our cousins from Kalamazoo could. A little piece of parapet—that's all."

"I suppose the next room would be the library," ventured Penelope, timidly.

"It looks like it," assented Percival, entering. "I guess it would look poor with sectional bookcases all around and a mission table and chairs—and one or two extra chairs to sit in."

"And a winged Victory," supplemented Penelope.

"Sure," agreed Percival. "We couldn't get along without him—or is it a he? Never mind. Are you going to let me smoke in here, pet?"

"Of course, darling," said Penelope. "You shall smoke anywhere you want to. Let's look at the dining room. Ooo-ooh! a beamed ceiling and little lights all over it. Isn't that too lovely for anything! Turn on the switch and let's see how much light it gives."

"The current's shut off," said Percival. "Oak shelving for the steins, too.

"And what an exquisite little china closet!" cried Penelope, rapturously. "You know Aunt Wilhelmina is going to give me that darling Hawthorne ten set. Wouldn't that look grand in there—the glass and the dark oak?"

"It certainly would," said Percival. "And the steins will look great. I'm mighty glad now that I made that little collection. It cost me some self-sacrifice, but I don't regret it at all. Nice little passage into the kitchen. That's to give the corn beef and cabbage effluvia a chance to dissipate and not make too abrupt an entrance. Come on and we'll take a look at the culinary apartment."

"I don't like the paper, though, do you?" said Penelope, lingering. "It's a little too sombre. I don't think a dining-room should be gloomy."

"It couldn't be if you were in it, and I expect to have you opposite me at meal-time," returned Percival.

"Let your delighted eyes wander to the cold storage arrangements, honeybird. I could store a whole case in here and leave you lots of room for odds and ends of food that you wanted to keep. Dumb waiter and a full assortment of speaking tubes to offset it.

"I haven't had a great deal of experience in this line, but I should judge our cook won't have much to complain of in the matter of equipment."

"I think the pantry is a dear," declared Penelope. "There are so many convenient drawers and dear little cubby holes. There's a nice view from this window, too. Percival, do behave yourself. Suppose the man should come back—That's all, now!"

"Sweetheart," said Percival, "won't it just be a little heaven!"

The Janitor Was On, All Right

Penelope nodded as she detached herself. "Let's go back to the library," she said. "Would you really like it, darling? You wouldn't want to stay at your club and play poker with a lot of horrid, smoky men?"

"Not on your mundane existence," replied Percival. "We'll have the boys up here to play poker, and I'll teach you so you can take a hand, and honey-bird—the things we'll have in that refrigerator—"

"Perhaps you would better stay at your club after all if that's the sort of thing you want," said Penelope severely. "If that's your idea of a little heaven—stale tobacco smoke—and gambling."

"But I nearly always win, honey-bird," pleaded Percival. "I bet I can win enough at poker to make up what you lose at bridge. Wouldn't you like to have some little bridge parties here after a while?"

"Well, I might, admitted Penelope; "but I know perfectly well that you don't win all the time. Nobody does. That man is coming. I hear him getting out of the elevator."

"I think our friends might like the apartment if one of two objections could be overcome," Percival said in a loud voice.

"Ho, here's the man now."

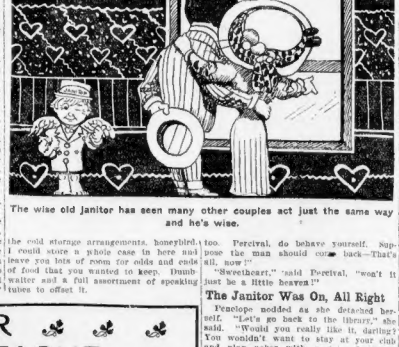
"What's the objection?" asked the janitor, good naturedly. "If its anything we kin do—"

"What is the rent?" asked Percival.

"Eighty-five a month, an' dirt cheap at that," answered the janitor.

"Have a cigar," said Percival, offering the case. "We are obliged to you for your trouble and will present the matter as favorably as possible to our friends. I suppose, by the way, you haven't anything at about thirty or thirty-five dollars. No? Come, sweet sister. We will be on our way."

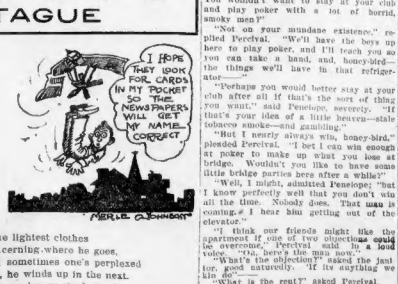
"If it was me, blamed if I wouldn't knock off ten dollars just to get yoose," said the janitor. "It's sure enough to discourage young folks from gettin' married, ain't it?"



The wise old janitor has seen many other couples act just the same way and he's wise.

THE AVIATOR

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE



AN aviator is a man who glides, and rocks, and swings
About the circumambient (sometimes) on canvas wings.
And when he gets a crowd around to see him soar away
His carburetor plays him false, and he don't sail that day.
A man or woman may backslide, and go and sin no more,
But carburetors, once gone wrong, are lost forever more

When skimming lightly through the blue, the aviator may
Observe with trepidation that the clutch is giving way.
Sometimes a wrench will fix it, if it doesn't slip and go
To fix a gaping passer-by, a hundred feet below.
But, if the clutch is past repair, the aeroplane comes down,
Astonishing the inmates of some underlying town.

To aviate successfully one wears the lightest clothes
And discards any thought of fear concerning where he goes,
For aeroplanes are speedy craft and sometimes one's perplexed
By finding, when he leaves this world, he winds up in the next.
But if you do not drink or swear, or smoke, or steal, or chew
And have a conscience crystal clear, the chances are you'll do.

At first, don't sail in public, if you're one of those who feel
Your duty is in toiling to promote the public weal.
And if you fail upon a crowd that never did you harm,
It's always well to toot your horn, or sound some strong alarm.
In fact, before you give your plane a very heavy trial,
It might be safer if you flew by proxy for a while.

Her Greatest Crime Against Other Women

By DOROTHY DIX

ARTICLE II.

YESTERDAY I ventured the opinion that woman's chief crime against her own sex, was in the bad husband or wife that she palmed off on some other woman's child.

If we should see a woman, and especially a woman who is a mother herself, take some little innocent child, and torture it for five minutes, there wouldn't be one of us who wouldn't be ready to head a mob to go out and lynch her. We would say that she was a fiend in human shape, and that something lingering, with boiling oil in it, was about the size of the punishment to fit her crime.

"Does she not think of how she would feel if her child were being mistreated?" we would cry. "Has she no pity for that other mother who must stand helplessly by and watch the sufferings of the child, that she would give her life blood to save?"

This is precisely what we should all say, and feel, if we saw a woman deliberately, even, making a little child cry, yet we women—we good, conscientious, Christian women—prepare the matrimonial purgatory into which we are going to snare some helpless young man or woman, and in which he or she will have to write for uncounted years, and we do this without one compunction over what the poor young creature and the poor young creature's mother must suffer.

Dooming Another to Misery

Every woman knows that an unhappy marriage is a hell on earth. Every woman knows that when she raises up a high-tempered, selfish, uncontrolled son or daughter she is dooming some man or woman to a lifetime of misery. More than that, she is condemning that man or woman's mother to years of vicarious suffering, yet women go right straight along rearing such children and precipitating such agony upon the world.

This is woman's chief crime, and the one that will rise blackest before her at the Judgment Day.

Divorce is only too common, but the divorce courts do not record a hundredth part of the matrimonial misery that we see all about us. Drink, a sense of duty, the love of children, the inability of the woman to support herself, keeps the majority of warring households together, but in these families there is nothing that is not mockery of all that marriage should mean. Whose fault it is that marriage is a failure it is impossible to tell without knowing the individual case, but it is a safe guess that, at least half the time, it is the wife who is at fault.

Now, there is not a woman in the world who could not have been trained to make a good wife if her mother had taken the trouble and the time to do it—if her mother had had a high sense of her obligation to give some other woman's son a good wife.

The mother is wholly responsible also as to whether a girl makes the kind of a wife who is a helpmeet to her, or the sort that keeps him poor, and his nose to the grindstone as long as he lives. There is nothing on earth so handicapped as the way women inculcate vanity and extravagance into their daughters. From the time a girl baby can toddle across the floor the main object in life is for her to have the kind of clothing and do the things that rich people indulge in.

A Silk Taste and a Calico Income

This is bad enough when the girl's parents have money to give her, but when they haven't it is criminal. They shunt a young woman with silk petticoat tastes on a poor young man who hasn't got anything but a calico income, and the result is that the man is sold into slavery for the balance of his days.

There can be also no domestic happiness in an ill-kept home. The tired man who comes back at night to a disorderly house, and an ill-cooked dinner is going to have his halo of romance smashed into atoms before you can say Jack Robinson. Moreover, he is going where he can find comfort and cheer, and that is the saloon and the club get back their own.

Whose fault is this? The girl's mother's. Any woman who has sense enough to go through the public schools can be taught to be an expert housekeeper and manager, and if every bride went into the holy estate with as much knowledge about how to run a home tucked under her pompadour as she has about how to unravel her hair, we would hear very little about wandering husbands.

The average girl baby is the dearest, sweetest, little duck of a thing you can find, and she is all ready to make some man a good wife if's her mother's fault. There was nothing hereditarily vicious about her.

Ask Yourself This Question

This is a matter that every woman with a daughter should take unto her heart. She should face the terrible question: Am I bringing up Annie to be the kind of a girl that I hope Tom will marry some day? Would I be willing to trust Tom's digestion to the kind of bread that Mamie makes? Do I want Tom to learn to fall in support of the kind of extravagance that I am encouraging in Mamie?

How many mothers could answer this by "yes?" How many would welcome their daughters in the guise of daughters-in-law? Yet, as a woman sows, so shall she reap, even in the matter of in-laws."

This is the second article of a series of three by Dorothy Dix, showing woman's greatest crime against her sex. The third and last article will appear on this page to-morrow.

SOCIETY

Fashionables Now Seeking New Recreation in Tours Abroad.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

After a few weeks' rest in country homes society people are again on the wing, and with most of them Europe is the goal. Dr. and Mrs. Reginald H. Fitz of Arlington street and their daughter, Miss Edith Fitz, and her pretty chum, Miss Dorothy Ball of Bay State road, have just arrived in Switzerland. The Fitzes sailed from New York a few weeks ago and expect to remain abroad until late in the Autumn. During their absence their handsome villa, The Mountain, at Magnolia, is being occupied by Mrs. E. W. R. Thayer and her daughter, Miss Susan Thayer.

Mrs. Edgar Harding and her niece, Miss Sally Woodbury of Chestnut street, who sailed recently, have been enjoying London for the past few weeks and motoring around the English country in Mrs. Harding's fine large touring car which she took over with her. They were entertained at tea at Dorchester House recently by Mrs. Reid, wife of the Ambassador.

Mrs. Boyer Davis of Philadelphia, Mrs. Harding's oldest daughter, and Miss Priscilla Harding, who has been with her sister at York Harbor, are going over later to join Mrs. Harding and Miss Woodbury and return with them in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Dowse of Commonwealth avenue, who are occupying their handsome Dunmere Summer home at Kendal Green, have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Sprague Gifford (nee Raymond Dowse), whose marriage was one of the brilliant events of last Spring. Juliette Huntress of Lowell, the fiancee of Granten Hall Dowse, is also one of the house guests. Miss Huntress's wedding to Mr. Dowse will take place in the early Autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Kellogg (Rosalie Hanson), who were married in Chicago in June, were recent guests at Seal Harbor, Maine. At the end of the season Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg will come to Boston to reside, making their home at No. 854 Beacon street.

"Pelleas and Melisande," the delightful drama by Maeterlinck, was read at the North Shore Grill Club this afternoon. The music for the opera is by De Bussy, who has caught the spirit of the author of the play almost marvelously and has made music which shows deep and emphatic appreciation of Maeterlinck's conception of the story of Paolo and Francesca. Among the patronesses of the affair are Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Hall McAllister, Mrs. Elsea D. Jordan, Mrs. Amory Eliot, Mrs. Joseph Sargent, Mrs. Richard J. Monks, Mrs. Harrison K. Caner, Miss Margaret Corliss, Mrs. C. Howard Clark, Jr., Mrs. James Means, Mrs. Walter Peasgood, Mrs. W. H. Moore, Mrs. Henry E. Russell, Miss Fancis M. Faulkner, Mrs. Alfred Packer, Mrs. Hugh Cathcrwood, Mrs. F. Ridley Brown, and Mrs. Gustavus L. Lawrence.

A Greek pastoral written and composed by Mrs. Albert Clifford Harrod of Washington is one of the treats to which Bar Harbor is to be given under the personal direction of its author and composer on Thursday, August 20. The scene of the performance is the grounds of the Bar Harbor Art Museum, which makes an admirable setting in the opinion of Mrs. Barney, as the Temple of Art will be in the background and mountains in the vicinity will form the background. The story, which is in three tableaux, has to do with the mythical, but the story is primarily a romance which will be told by music, acting and scenery with a short description of the beginning of each act by one of the Muses. The music is to be furnished by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Society has taken up the idea enthusiastically, and although the plans for the affair are scarcely completed all the boxes have been sold.

Miss Rosamond Dixey is entertaining Miss Beatrice Crosby of New York at her home, Tanglewood.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia College is at Bar Harbor, where he has been entertaining at Hearthstone Cottage. Among his guests were British Ambassador James Bryce, Mayor George B. McClellan of New York, Bishop William Lawrence of Massachusetts, General Horace Porter of New York, William Bayard Vanderbilt Stewart and Francis K. Pendleton.

Among the Lenox colony who entertained at dinner yesterday was Miss Adele Rice Sandford.

Governor of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder at Four Brook Farm in Lenox are Miss Julia Chapin of Loudon, Miss Alice Lonsdale of Philadelphia and Miss Winifred M. Rogers of New York.

Summer residents of Bar Harbor were addressed yesterday forenoon at Kenarden Lodge, the estate of John S. Kennedy, by the Southern educator, Booker T. Washington, and Dr. H. B. Prissell.

Professor Alexander Agassiz is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Agassiz at his Summer home in Newport.

Miss Sophie Irwin is entertaining her sister, Miss Agnes Irwin, who is the former dean of Radcliffe College. The Irwins are at Bar Harbor.

A mid-week wedding which was attended by friends from Boston, Beverly, Winchester, Brockton, Weymouth, New York and Philadelphia took place Wednesday evening in Woburn, when Miss Emma Hopper, daughter of Milford C. Hopper, became the bride of Chester White Holland. Miss Nellie Hopper, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the best man was Walter Hartshorn. The ushers were Lester Hartshorn, Harry Fellows, Percy Streut and George Smith.

W. C. Clark and R. M. Saltonstall of Boston are spending some time in New York this week.

Lieutenant Camperlo, naval attache of the Italian Embassy, has left Manchester and will be host on the Etruria to Count Casolino and the officers under him on the Italian cruiser, which has just sailed for Baltimore.

Among the guests who have accepted invitations to attend the big dinner which is given to-day in honor of Governor and Mrs. Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island are Governor and Mrs. Eben S. Draper of Massachusetts. The dinner is given by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanan.

DIVORCE DEFENDED BY NOTED WOMEN

The laws of Massachusetts in respect to divorce are founded on mercy—in a large majority of cases, as to practical results—mercy to women.

Those persons who talk against divorces and the divorce court mistake, sorrow and the divorce court mistake, among other errors, the cause for the consequence. Divorce is the consequence of habitual drunkenness, cruelty, desertion and other crimes, which are justifiable grounds for divorce, and not the cause of them. To say that divorce under the laws of this State causes the crimes for which divorce is allowed is no less absurd than it would be to say the law for the punishment of thieves produces or causes larceny.

The divorce court is an institution of civilization. Barbarians are not troubled by the law's delay, or a process of a court; they dispose of an undutiful spouse more summarily. It is only within the last half century and under government purely secular that married women have had adequate protection by law in respect to their property or persons.—Judge James B. Richardson on Divorce.

The announcement from the bench by Judge Richardson that divorce in a mercy to women has not only aroused comment of a widespread nature, but has brought out views of strong approval by some of Boston's noted women, whose married lives have been happy.

Rose Morison, of the Lindsay Morison Players, one of the better educated women of the stage and a broad thinker, who has enjoyed the happiest of married lives, said:

Should Cast Bride Aside.

"Neither a woman nor a man can know the one they marry until they have lived the one they marry until they have lived together for a time. Things will crop out which neither party to the marriage contract dreamed of when courting. When a woman finds she cannot get along with a man she should certainly seek and obtain a divorce if possible. A woman should do just that. Why should a woman endure drunkenness, cruelty, desertion, and treachery, when the man has proved to protect and take care of her. Pride on the woman's part should never be made the cause of wrecking her whole life through an unhappy and miserable marriage.

"On the other hand there are, no doubt, many divorces caused by very trivial things. If a woman be married she must not fly into a passion because her husband looks at another woman in the street car. Such things are undeniably foolish. Every woman must know whether or not her husband loves her. If he does she need have no fear that a glance at another woman of the most casual kind will ever harm him, and she is very foolish indeed to be unreasonably jealous. Those we love we trust.

How to Choose Husband.

"How would I cause the divorce rate to decrease? I don't know unless a few simple rules for unmarried women and women contemplating marriage would be of value. There are no rules which will fit every individual case, however, no matter how wisely they are compounded. To the woman who is to get married I should say:

1. Get a man of steady habits.
2. Secure a husband with an easy disposition, not irritable or nervous.
3. Study every quality in the man's character.
4. Do not have a long engagement.
5. Religious differences should not be considered.
6. I would never advise any girl to marry a man with a lot of money.

"The simple things I have said and which I should unwrite would help to correct the divorce evil are just what I have noticed when carrying on my part in these marriages. Last of all, if you are married and are tortured beyond human endurance—get a divorce, which is a mercy to woman in that case only."

Mrs. Inez Haynes F. Lowell, suffragist, wife of George F. Lowell, well-known stock broker, member of the Corporation Conference, philanthropist and society woman of Newtonville and Boston, said: "No man-made law can keep a man and a woman together unless they love each other. Judge Richardson knows whereof he speaks. I was very much pleased with his ideas on divorce.

Many Women Martyrs.

"Many married women are martyrs to the whims and cruelties of their husbands on account of their children. Most people hold the opinion that there are too many divorces.

"There are too few divorces. When a man and a woman are married and do not love each other their children are brought up in the wrong atmosphere. They do not realize what the true home life is, and really know what the true home life is, and therefore grow up with wrong ideas about marriage in general. It would be much better if all those couples in whom love is absent were divorced, so that at least one of the parents could bring up the children in some fixed idea with regard to marriage. The children would then have some attention and some real training in life, whereas now they are many times merely dragged up with no conception of the meaning of the true home life. There surely ought to be more divorces than there are now. Very few matches are made by God. It is to be doubted if many of the modern matches are made by Him. Divorce is certainly a mercy and a blessing."

ROSE MORISON, WHO TELLS HOW TO PICK A HUSBAND

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TALK TO HER MOTHER

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am nearly one years old, and have been keeping company with a lady one year my junior. We have made all of our plans to be married when my wages are raised, we both agreeing that it is not advisable to marry on less than $18 a week.

Last week, on two occasions, we went to Coney Island and Brighton Beach and passed the evenings, dancing, etc. The evening passed so quickly that I did not finally reach the young lady's home until 2 o'clock in the morning. Her mother now refuses to allow me to call and my lassie now thinks that I was wrong in keeping her out so late, saying that it was the talk of the neighborhood. She threatened to break off the engagement. Tell me what I can do, as I am almost frantic.

S. D. E.

HAVE a talk with her mother, tell her that it was a matter of carelessness, and promise that it will not occur again. It was much too late for a young girl to be out, and I do not wonder that her mother was angry. You should have had more thought for the girl than to subject her to gossip.

I think her mother will relent, and so, of course, will the girl, but take better care of her in the future.

DON'T SAY ANYTHING

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have a very dear girl friend whom I think a great deal of, and whenever I am at her house her brother sees me home. Now he and I have been quite friendly, and I like him very much. He has told me that he cares for me, and that I am the only girl he really loves, though I know that he goes around with a number of girls. What I want to know is, do you think he really means it, and also should I broach the subject to her sister, as I am sure she doesn't think for a moment that there is anything more than friendly feelings between him and me? Will you advise me what to say to her?

BESSIE.

I DO not think you can place much reliance in his declarations as long as he is attentive to other girls. He probably likes you as a friend and that is all. Do not say anything to his sister on the subject; she might tell him and that would place you in a very embarrassing position.

"SHE WHO DREAMS"

A MAN'S idea of a woman is expressed in the phrase "She who dreams," which means that her thoughts are on a higher plane than his.

He allows her absolute freedom of speech and manner, for he is sure that if there is anything to be said or done a woman's refinement and sincerity will exceed his own.—Ladies' Field.

DELICIOUS CHOWDER RECIPES POURING IN

WHEN Mr. John T. Hicks invited the housewives of New England to send him the best recipe for making clam chowder, he had little thought that there were so many routes to that delicious result. The first few days the number of responses was gratifyingly large. The next few days the number grew, and there were few, if any, doubles, for in one, if not more, particulars the recipes were different. And still the wonder grows, for as the days go by there is no effect flood of recipes. Differ though they do, a perusal of the recipes proves that the product of any one of them could not be else than appetizing. Mr. Hicks is offering a prize of$5 to the writer of the best recipe. The writer of the next best will receive a prize of $3 from the BOSTON AMERICAN. Following are some of the recipes:

FROM SALEM DIRECT.

If my recipe doesn't provide you a real old Salem chowder, it will be because directions have not been fully followed. Get half peck of best clams (are dry, take each one and work off the neck and then put them in a large kettle with about a quart of water and boil three minutes, then in the stove. Let them steam until the shells open; then take them from the kettle and put in a large dish, save the liquor in a pitcher to settle, then get about a half pound of fat salt pork and fry out brown, take out the pork and fry in the fat an old fashioned onion; add to the fat about till half done, then put clam water in the kettle and let boil until done; then put a large quart of milk in the kettle with twelve small chowder crackers and let it stand on the stove a little while.

MRS. E. A. MANNING.

"CLOSE TO MOTHER'S."

I know this will come close to the style of clam chowder your mother used to make, Mr. Hicks. Try it. Put into a pot half pint of chopped salt fat pork and fry out; into that put five good sized sliced potatoes, cut small; boiling water to cover and let cook until tender, then add pint of shelled clams out of milk, pieces of butter size of egg; add small onion if liked. Don't let clams cook too long. Season after taking off fire.

RECIPE FROM DORCHESTER.

To make real old-fashioned chowder, cut a half a pound of clear fat pork into dice; put into the chowder kettle and when fried crisp add four onions cut up fine, let fry, add a quart of water; when the water boils add a quart of potatoes sliced, a quart of clams; season well, using a good deal of pepper; when the potatoes are done, add clams and cream; set kettle on top of stove, cover, add a quart of milk; split a half dozen soda crackers and put them on top; when the crackers swell you can dip out with a piece of butter the size of an egg.

A CHEF'S WIFE'S WAY.

I am a chef's wife and make clam chowder that has a reputation. Following are the ingredients to be used: One cup salt pork, diced; one large onion, diced; four large potatoes cut in thin slices; one pint whole fresh clams; one quart minced clams; one quart boiling water to cover; salt and one pinch white pepper. Bruise the pork and onions until a rich golden brown. Put potatoes in with pork and onions, cover with boiling water and cook half five minutes; add clams and clam liquor from clams, salt and pepper; simmer gently until potatoes are cooked. Add hot milk and serve with half a Boston cracker in each plate.

THIS FROM SOUTH BOSTON.

This is my recipe for clam chowder. Boil one pint of clams in a half pint of water; when the shells open take out the meat, strain the water, boil in it three potatoes, sliced thin. Slice an onion and fry in pork. When potatoes are nearly done you can add the onion and two slices of the fried pork chopped up in cubes, salt and pepper to suit taste, a spoonful of butter, about seven or eight common crackers, soaked in milk, and lastly the clams. Add milk if too thick. Boil fifteen minutes longer and serve.

FOR A KING'S HOUSEHOLD.

Here is a chowder recipe fit for a king's household. The ingredients used should be: One quart clams, four cups potatoes cut in three quarter inch dice, one and one inch cubes fat salt pork, one sliced onion, one tablespoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, four tablespoons butter, four cups scalded milk and eight common crackers. Clean and pick over clams, using one cup cold water, drain, reserve liquor, heat to boiling point and strain. Chop finely hard part of clams; cut pork in small pieces and try out; add onion, fry five minutes and strain into a stew pan. Parboil potatoes five minutes in boiling water to cover; drain and put a layer in bottom of stew pan. Add chopped clams; sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge generously with flour; add another layer of potatoes, pork and onion, and sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour; add another layer of clams, and cover with remainder of potatoes, pork and onion; season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour; add clam liquor, and when nearly boiling point add scalded milk, soft crackers, split and soaked in enough cold milk to moisten. Bring to boiling point and thicken with flour and butter rubbed together and add one tablespoonful of butter and flour for each pint. Add to chowder just before serving. The clam water has a tendency to thicken the chowder, hence more is added at the last.

RECIPE FROM CAMBRIDGE.

Shave up a small piece of fat pork and fry brown, cut up two small onions and fry nice and brown, add four medium potatoes cut in one-quarter inch cubes, cover with water and cook; after and let simmer until potatoes are done; drain and pick over clams, put in pot and add one pint of milk, one pint of cream, one quart of clams, season with salt and pepper; serve with soda crackers.

OLD MAMMY'S STYLE.

Here is old Mammy's way of preparing chowder and everybody says it is delicious. Fifty clams, one pint of milk, one pint of water, two tablespoonfuls butter, one dozen water crackers, pepper to taste. Drain the clams and put the liquor on to boil; put the clams in with the liquor, cut it boil, free from all scum, then add the water, butter, milk and salt and simmer for five minutes; add the butter and the crackers, split and soaked in milk. Take from boiling point and stir in the beaten yolks of two eggs. Add to chowder just before serving. The cream water has a tendency to thicken the chowder and flour is added at the last.

MEMBERS OF "100" LIKE IT.

Some of the members of the "100" who Summer here have tested my clam chowder and declare it delicious. Try it. Mr. Hicks, and see how you will like it. Take a half-pound of salt pork, cut in dice; fry until a golden brown, being careful not to burn it, then remove the scraps from the pan and add four or five finely chopped large onions to the pork grease and cook until brown without burning. Then take a quart of the meat of soft-shell clams and a pint of the meat of hard-shell clams, chop quite fine. Put in a pot with their liquor, adding a pint of water. Add the fried onions and a small portion of the pork scraps; let boil for about fifteen minutes. Then add a quart of finely cut potatoes, cook until potatoes are done, add a quart of milk, let boil ten minutes slowly, adding pepper and salt to taste. Thicken with soda crackers and serve.

LOVE

Brown Eyes Plead for Sentiment And Women Fear Them

By ADA PATTERSON

BROWN eyes beg for love.

That is the reason why every woman instinctively fears a brown-eyed rival more than any other. Brown eyes may say with impunity what the lungs of their owner could not be persuaded to utter.

They are the eyes of sentiment. Hunters have said that with bullet in the throat, or gun levelled at the heart of a doe, they have dropped their weapons and turned their backs upon their victims, because of the plea of the doe's brown eyes.

Wandering mongrels, by every law of logic entitled to quick relief of death, have found friends and home and the social and economic dignity of a license and a collar because of the warm dog heart that has looked forth through the windows of brown dog eyes.

Eyes Like the Autumn Leaves

Adelaide Neilson, the greatest Juliet, is remembered for her exquisite art and her beseeching brown eyes. Marie Doro was elected to a stardom while yet in her drawing girlhood because, though her art was immature, her personality was full blown, and the greatest charm of that personality is her big brown eyes, that dwarf her face into pallor and smallness.

Black eyes are never, by those discriminating in color and sentiment, mistaken for brown. Black eyes are hard and bead-like. They are opaque. They resemble nothing inanimate except a new shoe button. Their owners have hearts as hard as their eyes. Black eyes are sentimentless, money getting pitiless. Brown eyes are the color of an oak leaf in October. They are luminous and transparent. They reveal frankly all the depths and shallows of the soul.

They invite affection. They challenge it. They implore it. And they receive it. Brown eyes are the eyes that stir us—the eyes that after many years, when the blue eyes of fraudulent and the gray eyes of cold and the green eyes of sinister memories have sped into the land of the forgotten, we remember.

The Tale of the Brown-Eyed

That is because of what the brown eyes say to us. They say: "Ambition is good and achievement is good, but affection is better. I am not very clever. I don't care to be clever. But I am true. I am tender. And I know that which has not been revealed to you before, the secret of happiness. Happiness is to love much. So, though brown eyes seem to be sad eyes, they are only so until the owners are seeking affection. When they find it, brown eyes are the deepest well springs in the world.

We talk of the brown eyes we are found among the great ones of the world. We are too gentle to be great, too tender to be more than moderately successful. We are too wise with the wisdom that knows the real values from the false to strive greatly after the pin wheels of fortune.

Brown eyes are the eyes of the sentimentalists. And the world needs sentiment and its expounders—the sentimentalists. Among the great men who follow us we ask we shall find, we, the brown-eyed folk, are content."

BOY'S SEVERE BLEEDING ECZEMA

Covered with Bleeding Humor when a Baby — Poor Little Sufferer Found No Rest and Could Only Fret and Cry Until Very First Use of Cuticura Brought Sleep.

JUSTICE OF PEACE TELLS OF CURE BY CUTICURA

"My baby boy was afflicted with eczema. It ran on him until he was full of sores from his head to his feet. Even the bottom of his feet were full of sores from the blood coming out. I believe that his case was as bad as it generally gets, for he was bleeding all over and could not rest. He was so small to tell anything about it, only to fret and cry. We could get nothing to relieve him until we got the Cuticura Ointment and the first application of the Ointment put him to sleep. Then we used Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap and he continued to improve until cured. The boy is right now and has been for the last seven or eight years. I believe that the Cuticura Remedies will cure all cases of eczema if used right, as I know that they were the means in saving our baby relief. D. J. Pierce, Justice of the Peace of Lee Co., Cameron, N. C., Oct. 23 and Nov. 7, 1908."

GREAT RUSH AT CUSTOMS HOUSE HERE

With the new tariff in effect, Boston merchants to-day began to take out millions of dollars' worth of goods from bond, and Collector Lyman says that the August business of the port will be a record breaker. Merchandise that has been kept in bond ever since the tariff fight began, and which is not affected by the change, is being taken out upon the payment of the duties and interest.

Never before was the Custom House so busy. Some ships raced to get here before the tariff change and some are racing yet, their captains not knowing that the day has passed. Three cargoes, totalling about $4,000,000 in value, were due here yesterday from Japan, China and the Philippines, but the ships have not been sighted. They are the Wray Castle, Inverclyde and Kennebec.

Aboard a score of schooners bringing shingles from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are also on the way, and most of them were expected here yesterday. Now the duty on shingles has jumped 20 cents per thousand. It is probable that some of the vessels put into ports along the Maine coast in order to get in under the old duty.

Collector Lyman is unable to figure out the result of yesterday's rush, but it is estimated that the business in August has passed the million mark. Three big liquor dealers appeared late yesterday and took out of bond champagnes and whiskies upon which they paid a total of $26,000 duty.

Large amounts of hosiery, cotton damask, wood pulp, lithographs, and thousands of picture postal cards from Germany, were released from bond and duties paid.

Of the four ships that raced across the ocean and got in port before the tariff changed, the steamer Buffalo, of the Wilson line, the last one in, and the closest call. The Buffalo left Hull, Eng., July 22, and was but twelve hours ahead of the Leyland line ships Caledonian from Manchester and the Cambrian from London got in about 5 o'clock, with cargoes which escaped the higher duties.

The custom house was kept open until 9 o'clock and then no other vessels being sighted, it was closed. The new tariff went into effect at midnight.

GREAT SUM LOST IN RACE TO BEAT NEW TARIFF RATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The importers who raced against time and the passage of the new tariff and lost a fortune through it served notice on Collector Loeb to-day that their would make a fight. The liner Pennsylvania, carrying a cargo which would be assessed $20,000 higher under the new tariff bill than under the old schedules, was within three miles of Sandy Hook when the Custom House closed, at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, passing the quarantine boat sent up to speed, and trying to nose in before full hour. Frank Tichenor, one of the owners of the Pennsylvania, will make a fight on a technicality. He will say he was delayed that the manifests of the vessel should have been delivered at the Custom House before the closing hour.

Under old regulations the custom house kept open until midnight in an emergency, but Mr. Loeb issued orders to put up the shutters at the regular hour. The captains of the vessels more fortunate than the Pennsylvania sped to their docks at lawbreaking speed and all haste was made to get the cargoes cleared at the customs officials. It meant thousands of dollars for such vessels as the Teutonic and Freighters Charges, Egda and Allepheny, which were only a few of those coming into port carrying cargoes valued at tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars that increased in duty at midnight.

VANDERLIP SEES GOLDEN ERA AHEAD

By A. M. CHAPMAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, formerly Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury and noted for his keen financial acumen, announced to-day to the American that the nation is on the crest of a business wave that will carry it to unprecedented financial prosperity.

"I am a bull on business," he smiled. "In my opinion we are at the beginning of a long period of most profitable commercial activity. The crop movement will be somewhat unexpected and unlooked for occurrence.

"Of that there is not at the present time the faintest indication. Not a cloud is to be seen on the financial horizon, nor is there even the semblance of one."

Mr. Vanderlip's optimistic forecast was due very largely to what he saw in the West in a three weeks' trip throughout that section, from which he has just returned. "Although I was on pleasure bent," he said, "and business did not occupy my attention I could not fail to notice the evidences of prosperity that abounded on every side.

"In view of that, I look for money here to become a little tighter toward Fall, but not to such an extent as to cause any trouble. There is not likely to be any stringency, nor is the situation likely to become such that resort will have to be had to the relief provided in the Aldrich emergency currency law."

Mr. Vanderlip was asked whether the tariff, which is generally denounced by Democrats, now and then, would be revised upward instead of the revision downward pledged by Mr. Taft and the Republican party. He would be likely to affect trade adversely.

"I am interested in the tariff only so far as to be glad that it is out of the way," he said. "With the element of uncertainty removed business will advance, I believe, more rapidly. In fact, I am of the opinion that trade will become so good within a short time that once of us will remember or care whether the tariff was revised upward or downward."

NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH IN RUNAWAY

After a sensational ride of half a mile clinging to the saddle of a runaway horse, Leo Murray, the eleven-year-old son of Thomas P. Murray, a Dedham real estate man, was thrown to the ground on High street, Dedham, to-day, and painfully injured, in a daring effort to bring his charge under control. Young Murray had been left seated in the two-wheeled gig used by his father outside the registry of deeds office on High street. The animal took fright and darted down the street in the direction of East Dedham. The boy managed to grasp the dashboard, then reached out, and, catching the breeching, climbed over on to the shafts. Along High street the horse galloped and around Memorial square, narrowly missing several teams.

Caledonian Picnic Trophies Shown at Houghton & Dutton's

Photograph of prizes to be competed for next Saturday.

Great interest is shown by the public in the display in the Tremont street window of the Houghton & Dutton Company of the gold medals, silver cup and the $1,000 sterling silver shield to be competed for at the fifty-sixth annual picnic and games of the Boston Caledonian Club on Saturday next.

It is a splendid and highly artistic window display. A miniature picture of Uncle Sam with the stars and stripes is on one side, and on the other is a picture of a Scotch Highlander with the cross of St. Andrew. There is a background of rich silks. The Houghton & Dutton Company place their best show window at the disposal of the Caledonian Club every year to show the trophies for its famous games.

The company does this out of compliment to the Scotch in Massachusetts.

The $1,000 shield is played for each year by Massachusetts football clubs, and after it has been played for a specified number of times, will become the property of the organization which has won it the greater number of times. Each year the name of the winning club is inscribed upon it. It is the most valuable athletic trophy in the world.

Hon. Walter Scott of New York presented the silver cup as a prize to encourage bagpipe music, of which he is an admirer, and all the pipers want to win it. The medals are the prizes for running, jumping, hurdle and other events. The picnic on Saturday promises to be the most successful the club has ever held.

CHAUFFEURS FORM PROTECTIVE BODY

The latest workers to enter the field of organized labor are the chauffeurs of Greater Boston, and they are led to take this step through the success that has attained the similar organization that has been instituted in New York. The chauffeurs, however, will be rather distinct in the field of organized labor, as their object of formation is to secure better legal protections for themselves rather than to act as a check against their employers. Such an organization has been established among the owners of automobiles, wherein, by the payment of a small assessment, legal talent is employed in both civil and criminal action.

FATHER MERRITT GETS NEW CHARGE

A surprise was given the parishioners of St. Raphael's Church, West Medford, when it became known that the pastor, the Rev. Nathaniel J. The Catholic people of West Medford keenly regret the removal of Fr. Merritt.

EBY HAD STUDIED USE OF EXPLOSIVES

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—That Abraham C. Eby, Mayor of Burkeville, Va., who threatened to "blow up the Pennsylvania Railroad system," President McCrea paid him $45,000, had made a thorough study of explosives was learned to-day. Detectives for the railroad say he experimented secretly at night. After his arrest Eby was searched, but little was found in his clothing. In his handbag were two bored pistols and two bottles of whiskey. Postal authorities say that Eby is not insane, but had to be. He was held in $10,000 bail by United States Commissioner Craig for trial in September.

The building was destroyed with a loss of $8,000.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, Aug. 6.—A new complication has arisen for the bears in the shape of possible further bond issues. The bank currency of the United States is already almost at high record level. The only way the Government can sell the new bonds at fair prices is by making them available for circulation. The banks will, of course, take out the circulation. This means a possible half billion more of bank currency issued at a time when there is already too much in existence. With this possibility facing the bears and the $500,000,000 of Aldrich law currency in reserve, it seems absolutely impossible for money rates to advance beyond a nominal price. Never in the history of the world has such a condition existed, and not even the greatest financiers can give more than a guess at the outcome. Crop reports are so favorable that there is not for the present any fear of gold and bank currency being added to the money supply daily would break hotly for it. As it is, there seem to be plenty of shorts willing to buy at long prices. What will be done when this short interest is filled up from the condition of the market will be developed.

It is well known that the Rockefeller-Morgan interests have pooled their market operations in Reading stock. A member of J. P. Morgan & Co. is outside manager of the pool, and a well known Reading broker is in charge on the floor. The Morgan people are committed to a 4 per cent dividend rate on the common stock and a 5 per cent. in January, with a prospect of 6 per cent. in January for the common stock. Having gone on record for the dividends, the outfit is under obligation to support the market because of the effect on the public's confidence in leadership. The policy of Reading is apparently for the benefit of the insiders, as the public has not any particular development in the company itself. Reading has been bought on the theory that its equipment is in good condition, as the result of the present market price, especially in such a money market as this.

The big insiders have an intense desire to liquidate, but have not done so because of the public's lack of confidence in sufficient number to carry away the shares. For this reason, and because of the talk on steel put out by the Morgan people, nothing more than a temporary reaction is expected. Indeed, the best banking houses say that they look for several days of very active trading at advancing prices in consideration of the event. The tariff law is a distinct point of bullish interest in principle it is victory for the people, because it means a decrease in cost for one of several years ahead, but the first results do not appear to be in favor of the bears or for the consumer. Wall Street realizes this and is keeping quiet and waiting.

Jersey Central is another stock that has made a record under inspiration of the Morgan people. Reading control of Jersey Central, the advance in Reading is partially explained by the high price of the Jersey Central holdings. The distribution of assets on the part of Jersey Central from which they came to the Lackawanna. The company is not compelled to pay the Reading a cent but can sell its coal properties, but may do so to prevent criticism.

Rumors of resumption or increase of dividends on equipment stocks in the near future are heard on every hand. They have been in circulation for some time, but interests closely identified with the properties distribute them on any basis for these reports. The best reasons given are that the companies are flush with money, that with equipment at such low figures that the increase in the cost of replacing it next year will not be nearly as large as is generally expected, that it is better to pay out the money in dividends than to be put into betterments, that the money is not needed for betterments, which have been neglected to some extent during the recent lean years in order that the companies could keep up dividends on their preferred stocks.

If the improves as much as is generally expected during the rest of the year the earnings of several of these companies would increase their divisible surplus by a half or more. Should that time have put their plants in good condition and there will probably be a rise in prices of equipment as soon as business has been stimulated to the point where the railroads will come into the market of their own accord and will not have to be coaxed by low prices to order equipment.

Rumor persists in asserting that the Harriman interests have been increasing their holdings of New York Central stock and, by so doing, consolidate to fix tariffs, recounts that the Union Pacific has taken in a considerable block of it in the last few months, about half from the proceeds of the $75,000,000 bond issue, January for dividends preferred, and the other half from the proceeds of a recent sale of Southern Pacific. Of course, assuming the correctness of these figures, Union Pacific could use the money in some other way than by buying New York Central stock, but it would continue to theorize until definite information of some kind is given out.

All the Gould stocks are strong under the leadership of Missouri Pacific. The argument for the rise is that applications are coming from many influential quarters for participation in the Missouri Pacific underwriting syndicate and that as the members of the syndicate are likely to entertain favorable views regarding the Gould properties, there is every prospect that the Missouri Pacific Gould securities hereafter will have strong new backing.

SIGN PAINTERS GAIN IN STRIKE

Reports received at the headquarters of the striking sign painters to-day declared that there is not a journeyman sign painter in the city working in opposition to the strike. The three sign painters who refused have quit their jobs and made application for union membership cards. The strikers to-day conceded the new wage scale—$4 for journeymen and $3 for helpers. There was the fifth of the master sign painters to sign the agreement. But forty of the 50 members of Local No. 391 are to-day out of employment.

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Amateurs who attempted a raid on the stock market when the tariff bill passed Congress were surprised to-day to discover that they had lost their stocks and had not checked the market.

The advance was resumed at the opening under leadership of Atchison, which made a new high record at 119¾. The Atchison preferred was also a conspicuous feature, selling close to its high record. Missouri Pacific sold up 3%. Lead 1¼ and Steel ½ point.

Canadian Pacific also became very strong rising to 156¾.

London was strong but dull in the American department.

In Chicago wheat declined about 1 cent a bushel. In New York cotton was about 40 cents a bale higher.

LAUTERBACH ASKS PROOF OF WEDDING

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Unless Miss Sophia Houston Cunningham, her father or some one else acting in her behalf, produces before to-night satisfactory proof to Edward Lauterbach of her marriage to his son in July, 1908, and the birth of a son, the Lauterbach family will formally disavow the young woman's statement that she is the widow of Alfred Lauterbach and that either she or the infant has any claim on the estate. Mr. Lauterbach says the marriage of his son was impossible.

RICH MERCHANT TO FIGHT SPEED FINE

BROCKTON, Aug. 6.—Aroused over the imposition of a $15 fine upon him on the charge of reckless overspeeding, which was imposed in the court at Dedham, W. H. Bosworth of the Brockton Heel Company, a wealthy resident of this city, says that he will stick in jail forever before he will pay a penny of the fine.

"I'll go to jail for the rest of my life before I will submit to such legalized robbery as the fine that was imposed on me," he said. "My indicator showed plainly that I was going at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, and I told the judge so."

ANNOUNCE RAISE IN PRICE OF DIAMONDS

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—The Increasing prosperity of the United States has caused an increase in the price of diamonds, according to a published list of prices made public to-day by the newly established Imperial government monopoly in Southwest Africa, which controls the diamond output. The increase in price is from $5.02 per carat to $7.25 wholesale.

LIGHTNING PINS HIM TO A CHAIR

GREENHURST, Md., Aug. 6.—William Conner was dining with James Armour when lightning struck the house. The heat of the chair split and closed again, catching Conner by the flesh. The chair had to be broken before he could be released.

LAKE COPPER STILL STRONG

STATE STREET, Aug. 6.—Prices were generally strong in the stock market this forenoon, although there was some irregularity in Amalgamated and North Butte. Lake Copper continued strong and advanced to 30½. Offerings of this stock continue light. U. S. Coal & Oil was an active feature and sold up a point to 36 through clever pool work.

A mix-up in the price of Amalgamated over the sweeping reduction by Lee Higginson & Co. in anticipation of the government crop report to be issued by the government on Monday. Atchison is also under influence of the strong market position of Pennsylvania, that railroad being its largest individual stockholder.

Lake Copper sold off at yesterday's rapid rallied sharply to-day. Reading came back more than a point overnight, selling close to its high record. Missouri Pacific sold up 1%. Lead 1¼ and Steel ⅝ point.

Canadian Pacific also became very strong rising to 156¾.

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, AUGUST 6, 1909.

LETTING IN DAYLIGHT IN THE POLICE DEPARTMENT

Unprejudiced readers of the American cannot fail to appreciate the VALUE of the articles on the Boston Police Department now being published from day to day in the American.

The American again reiterates that this newspaper has no other than the PUBLIC INTEREST to serve in exposing police mismanagement. There are hundreds of HONEST AND EFFICIENT MEN ON THE POLICE FORCE. There are some men in high positions on the force who would be a CREDIT to any police department in the world.

But the Boston Police System itself, the police department as managed by Commissioner O'Meara and Superintendent William H. Pierce is not what it ought to be.

As an example of the inefficiency of OFFICIALS IN CHARGE of the department, it was pointed out yesterday in the American's news columns that neither O'Meara nor Pierce knew until they were informed by an American reporter what the limits of Boston police jurisdiction are. Both O'Meara and Pierce declared unqualifiedly that Peddocks Island WAS NOT under the jurisdiction of the police department of Boston, but WAS WITHIN the jurisdiction of Hull.

This is not true, nor has it been true for several years. The Boston Police Department, according to the law, has ABSOLUTE JURISDICTION ON PEDDOCKS ISLAND—a plague spot where only recently a disgraceful Chinese orgie was permitted—and yet so little do O'Meara and Pierce know about the work they are engaged in that it was left to this newspaper to POINT OUT THE LAW to them under which they may make arrests if they so desire.

If the police officials do not know the boundaries of their jurisdiction, how in the name of common sense can they be expected to run down thieves and robbers, and suppress disorderly houses?

Have O'Meara and Pierce EVER READ THE LAWS applying to the police department, and the suppression of crime and the punishment of criminals?

With so little knowledge of their power is it any wonder that thieves break into one of their station houses and steal money from the locker of a policeman?

Isn't there enough material in these two incidents to furnish a plot for a comic opera? In all seriousness the American asks, is this funny or isn't it?

There has of late been a notable gathering in of women of the streets by the police, but it has not yet been recorded that the MANAGERS, PROPRIETORS AND PROPERTY OWNERS of disgraceful hotels and eating houses have been interfered with. WHY?

Have the men who manage these disgraceful resorts a pull, or is there some graft in it for somebody? Why eternally hustle women from pillar to post, but let GUILTY MANAGERS AND OWNERS of resorts go free?

There are dozens of eating houses and so-called hotels, where young men and women are lured to ruin, that could be closed up at an hour's notice if the police so desired.

No complaints have been made by the department to the Licensing Board about these resorts.

The Licensing Board cannot escape responsibility, either. This board under the law has the widest possible latitude in revoking licenses and the fact that scores of dives are OPENLY VIOLATING THE LAW would seem to indicate that the Licensing Board is not attending to its duty, to put it mildly.

Full responsibility, however, for the present disgraceful condition of affairs rests upon Commissioner O'Meara. The Legislature has given the police commissioner the amplest power to manage the police department. He is indeed a very Czar. He has more power than any other police commissioner in the United States. He can "CLEAN UP" BOSTON IN TWO HOURS IF HE WISHES TO DO SO.

WHY DOESN'T HE ACT? AND AGAIN WHY? WHY? WHY?

And will Mr. O'Meara KINDLY EXPLAIN by what authority he has gone into the tailoring business?

Do our citizens understand that the Boston Police Department is operating A PROFITABLE CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT?

Why are members of the police force charged an exorbitant price for their uniforms? According to the testimony of policemen they pay a higher price for the cloth used in their uniforms than is necessary.

And according to O'Meara's report the city of Boston last year MADE A PROFIT of $2,131.90 on uniforms. Who authorized this? Where does the money go?

Every penny of this $2,131.90 was WRONGFULLY TAKEN from members of the force. The police department has not been authorized to go into the clothing business, and the $2,131.90 have been filched from hard-working men, who need their money for the support of their families and the education of their children.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

ELIOT'S RELIGION

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I was surprised at the remarks of Bishop McPaul in his assault upon Dr. Eliot's "New Religion." I want it perfectly understood that I have the utmost respect for Bishop McPaul, and all the pastors of the old faith, who in my mind have ossified the principles of Dr. Eliot's new religion with the weakest of weapons, void even of the basic principles of substance.

Bishop McPaul says, "We are not looking for man-made religion. We are not like the Unitarians and other denominations dissatisfied with the religion we possess." To this asks, How can any religion exist unless it has fundamental principles? In answer to this question I wish to state that this has always been a puzzle to those of us who are students of the new thought, or new religion, as we will not accept anything until we are positively assured of its fundamental principles, and in my opinion, the time is present when a new religion is necessary for the salvation of man.

Those of us who have long ago adopted the new religion, not particularly in strict accord with Doctor Eliot's version of it, have become enlightened in seeking and yearning for the truth which we could not accept as manifested in the ancient creeds and dogmas. We are to-day living in an age of advanced science and constant revelations, and every day there is some new truth laid bare to the general observed which must be accepted, not as theory but as a fact, and when we are positively assured that our belief is based upon absolute truth, obtained by scientific research, we defy the world to convince us that we are wrong.

We respect all creeds that are sincere in their work for the good of mankind, but we abhor hypocrisy. We believe that the world is growing better every day, but to reach perfection we must all co-operate with God and work together in that grand and noble spirit of fraternity, a universal brotherhood, under the glorified banner of truth. Now if man was made in the image of God, we all must of necessity be a part of the same God, but possessing the lower principles. The higher principles are God's immutable law, beyond the reasoning conception of man, and we as tiny little particles of God's elements must content ourselves with the limitations of our own comprehensiveness, and accept only such truths as may be revealed to our own reasoning conception and legitimate aspirations.

M. THINKER.

PUTS BLAME ON CHILDREN

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I desire to express my dissent from the sentiments expressed in your editorial, wherein you say that there is never any excuse for a man with an automobile who runs over a child. You say that no one ever runs into a cow or a horse, because such a collision would be likely to injure the driver of the automobile, whereas there is no such danger in running over a child. As a matter of fact, collisions with horses and cows do occur quite frequently, although they are not given as much space in the newspapers as are collisions with children.

If it is not always possible, with the most extreme care, to avoid hitting a child, or a hen, or a woman, or a dog. These seem to be the four creatures most likely to run in front of one. I have myself collided with these four when riding a bicycle at a very slow speed, in some instances certainly not over three miles an hour.

ELBERT HUBBARD'S ARTICLE —ON— LOYALTY

Especially Written for the American

By ELBERT HUBBARD

LOYALTY is that quality which prompts a person to be true to the thing he understands.

It means definite direction, fixity of purpose, submission to that which your intellect tells you is best, right and proper.

Loyalty supplies power, poise, purpose, ballast and works for health and success.

Nature helps the loyal man. If you are careless, slipshod, indifferent, Nature assumes that you wish to be a nobody and grants your prayer. Loyalty, in one sense, is love, for it is a form of attraction. A vacillating mind is a sick mind in a sick body.

Vacillation is a lack of loyalty—and it is a disease. Loyalty is not a mere matter of brain capacity; success does not go to those who know the most—it gravitates to those who are true to the cause which they undertake. Loyalty is a quality, and in a very great degree it is controlled by our will. "This one thing I do."

The human mind can be likened to a tract of land divided up into lots. These mental lots are made up of, say, business, education, love, art, music, work, play—a single lot being given to each subject; then each of these lots is also sub-divided. In some of these town lots the man has a devout, loyal interest; for others he is neutral, and toward others he may have an indifference bordering on repulsion. No man has ever lived who had an equal loyalty toward every department of life, and if a person is absolutely loyal to one, he does well. If he can show himself equal to being true to several, he is a genius.

The more worthy things to watch you are loyal, the greater you are.

Disloyalty is very much more common than disloyalty. Disloyalty means simply indifference. Edgar Allan Poe was true to "the poetic principle," but false to his body, for he persisted in putting an enemy into his mouth to steal away his brains. Daniel Webster, who was wofully lax in regard to the rights of his shoemaker, was faithful to his tapster.

Rembrandt was true to his art, yet seemingly untrue to all else. But this loyalty to art made him the supreme painter of all time.

Turner was loyal to his art and had no other gods before landscape painting, and so he struck thirteen and placed a mark so high that others cannot even imitate him.

George Washington was true to his country, and only through his unflinching loyalty to the "cause" could he have fought out those long, weary years against a foe superior in numbers and arms, and at last wring victory from seeming defeat.

Gladstone's loyalty to England was the keystone in his arch of triumph.

Byron made bargains with Barabbas, but he never wrote a muddy, slipshod line, nor could he be bribed or bought to do so. He had the "artistic conscience," whether he had any other kind or not.

Success hinges on loyalty. Be true to your country, your art, your business, your employer, your "house." Disfluence is defeat. "All is fair in love and war" is a maxim that may be true as regards war, but never as to love. Love is founded on faith, and he who violates faith violates his own nature and wrecks the venture. Loyalty is for the one who is loyal.

It is a quality woven through the very fabric of one's being, and never a thing apart. Loyalty makes the thing to which you are loyal yours.

Disloyalty removes it from you. Whether any one knows of your disloyalty is really of little moment, either one way or the other. The real point is how does it affect you. The denial is a man who is disloyal to his work.

All useful service is raised to the plane of art when love for the task—loyalty—is fused with the effort. No man ever succeeded in business (or can) who wears the dial of the clock. Such a one may not be disloyal—but he is ever ripe for a lay-off, and always imagines some one has it in for him.

And he is right—everybody and everything, including Fate and Destiny, Clio and Nemesis, have it in for him. The only man who goes unscathed is the one who is the great lubricant in life. It saves the wear and tear of making daily decisions as to what is best to do. It preserves balance and makes results cumulative. The man who is loyal to his work is not wrung nor perplexed by doubts—he sticks to the ship, and if the ship founders he goes down a hero, with colors flying at the masthead and band playing. The hospitals, jails, asylums and sanitariums are full of disloyal people—folks who have been disloyal to friends, society, schools, business, work.

Never say, "That will do," or "This is good enough," or "Who cares?" Nothing but your best is good enough. Stick! And if you quit, quit to tackle a harder job God is on the side of the loyal!
